OAS Terrorists Shoot Hospital Patients

Nine Killed, 7 Wounded By Gunfire

Helpless Patients Slaughtered In Ruthless Attack

ALGIERS (AP)—A band of 15 Secret Army Organization (OAS) terrorists marched into a quiet hospital Tuesday and methodically sprayed Moslem patients with gun fire as horrified doctors and nurses watched.

The attack lasted less than 10 minutes. It was one of the most savage in the Secret Army's last-ditch terror campaign to block Algeria's independence.

Authorities could give no reason for the attack except wanton terror. Most of the victims had been patients for months or years, suffering from a variety of ailments unrelated to the rebellion.

Official Is Killed

There was terror elsewhere in Algiers. A Moslem official of the French Finance Ministry, was shot and killed by a terrorist in one of the series of shootings.

The attack on the hospital was carried out with precision, the terrorists driving into the palm-shaded grounds about 6:30 a.m.

"This is an inspection!", shouted one of the killers. A moment later the quiet, sunny morning was shattered by gunfire. The terrorists — all Europeans — fired through windows and then with military precision marched into the clinic.

Sprayed With Bullets

Some terrified patients locked the doors of their rooms, but the terrorists shot away the locks and then sprayed the rooms with bullets.

Two of the patients managed to wedge a wooden beam against their door. The terrorists fired through the wooden panel but missed the patients.

One patient fled through a door into the garden crowded with rosemary and lavender bushes. He lost his slippers on a gravel path but kept running until a gun burst cut him down. He was gravely wounded.

As the terrorists drove off, the clinic was rocked with the blast of dynamite—more powerful than the plastic explosive usually favored by the secret army.

GOP Stalls U.N. Bond Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican demands for additional limitations on President Kennedy's authority stalled a compromise bill Tuesday that authorized him to lend the United Nations $100 million.

The opposition erupted at a conference of Republican senators. Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said another conference might be necessary to iron out differences.

But Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, Democratic leader, said he saw no reason for further delay in taking up the bipartisan plan. He said he hoped the Senate could begin acting on proposed amendments and substitutes for the measure Wednesday.

Kennedy originally asked authority to purchase $100 million of 25-year, 2 per cent, U.N. bonds to help it out of a financial crisis caused by failure of Communist and other nations to pay assessments for operations in the Middle East and Congo.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee amended this to a $25-million outright purchase, plus up to $75 million additional, matching other nation's purchases. Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., countered with a proposal for a $100-million, three-year loan at prevailing interest rates.

The compromise, worked out with Aiken and other Republicans, would give the President discretionary authority either to lend the money or purchase the bonds, with the final $75 million still on a matching basis.

Dirksen expressed "grave doubt" the new opposition could be smoothed over in time to permit the overwhelming Senate passage the administration wants to indicate its support of the United Nations.

"The administration is not out of the woods yet," Aiken added. Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass., stated, "It would be a fair statement to say there was a division of opinion among the Republican senators."

Congress Votes To Double Size Of Peace Corps

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Tuesday gave President Kennedy's Peace Corps a resounding bi-partisan vote of confidence. Legislation to more than double its size and funds won easy passage and even the congratulations of some of the corps' most bitter critics in the past.

The administration bill would expand the present authorized strength of the Peace Corps from 2,400 to 6,700 volunteers by July of next year.

It would boost spending for the program from $30 million to $63.7 million if Congress later appropriates the full amount sought by Kennedy.

Cuban Testifies U.S. Pilot Was Invasion Victim

HAVANA (AP) — A witness at the trial of nearly 1,200 invasion prisoners has testified an American pilot was shot down during the assault on the Bay of Pigs last April, Cuban newspapers reported Tuesday.

The pilot was identified as Leo Francis Berles of Boston, Mass. He carried Social Security card number 01407-6921, the newspapers said.

The tone of the testimony as it appeared in the Cuban press indicated the pilot was killed in flaming wreckage of the plane. There has been no word of Americans among the captives on trial.

With the trial in its fifth day, Western newsmen still were barred from attending the hearings in Havana's Principe Prison.

Vietnamese Open Drive Against Cong

8,000 Troops Begin Campaign To Wipe Out Reds

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) —About 8,000 Vietnamese troops combed a 10-square-mile section of the Mekong River valley Tuesday in the biggest, single operation against Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

A dispatch from the scene — 30 miles south of the Cambodian frontier—said two American-built AD6 fighters strafed and killed about 40 fleeing rebels. The operation was based at Cao Lanh.

The ground force was supported by boats. There was no indication whether any U.S. servicemen or helicopters took part, though U.S. military advisers usually accompany large missions.

The aim was to clear the area of elements of a Viet Cong battalion, a unit of perhaps 600 men.

Several prisoners were taken. One government casualty was reported.

Elsewhere, an unofficial but normally reliable civilian source said three battalions of Vietnamese marines defeated a force of 500 or 600 Viet Cong near the southern tip of Viet Nam. He said about 100 of the guerrillas were killed and five Vietnamese marines perished. A U.S. military source commented that the report of 100 rebels killed seemed rather high.

Mrs. Gaillot Threatens To Show Letter

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—A Roman Catholic woman, irked by the response of Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel, promised Tuesday to reveal the letter threatening her with excommunication "if the runaround doesn't stop."

Mrs. B. J. Gaillot Jr., head of the segregationist organization Save Our Nation, Inc., said the archbishop's chancery acknowledged receipt of her letter asking for an audience. She said she wanted to answer his letter — termed a "paternal admonition" by the chancery—because it "contains false statements and false accussations."

"The archbishop received my letter yesterday," Mrs. Gaillot said, "but he wouldn't say if the audience would be granted this week or next week."

"I told the press I set Friday as the deadline for the audience or I would reveal the contents of the letter threatening me with excommunication," she added.

A similar letter went to State Rep. Rodney Buras, who was on the speakers' platform at a meeting of the prosegregation White Citizens Council last Friday. Buras received the letter Sunday, asked for an audience with the archbishop and met with the 85-year-old prelate Monday.

Buras emerged from the session saying he emphatically opposed integration. "As a member of the Roman Catholic Church," he added. "I must abide by its laws and decisions pertaining to the diocese in which I live."

Nike Missile Base Profits Being Probed By U.S. Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators began delving Tuesday into allegations that profit was piled on profit in equipping the country's Nike missile bases.

Setting the stage for the inquiry, staff investigator Robert E. Dunne testified that three firms each took more than $9-million profit on launcher-loaders that cost about $146 million to build.

Sen. John L McClellan, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Investigations subcommittee conducting the hearing, commented that pyramiding of profits through three levels of contractors totaled about $29.5 million or 20 per cent of the cost.

McClellan said the crux of the issue was whether the government might not save money by eliminating the middleman.

In an opening statement, McClellan said no one was being accused of wrongdoing. He said the subcommittee's job was to see that excessive profits and costs do not occur.

Dunne testified the launching and loading equipment was produced by Consolidated Western Steel Co. of Los Angeles, a U.S. Steel Corp. subsidiary, over an eight-year period from 1932 to 1960.

He said the company received a $9,285,000 profit on the equipment that cost about $146 million to produce.

Consolidated was at the bottom of three tiers of contractors and subcontractors, Dunne said. At the top was Western Electric Co., which holds the major contract on the Nike-Ajax and Nike-Hercules missiles. In between was Douglas Aircraft Co., a major subcontractor.

Dunne testified that Douglas collected a profit of $10,354,659 and Western Electric received $9,840,475.

Brazil's President Arrives

WASHINGTON (AP) — Brazil's President Joao Goulart flew into Washington Tuesday with praise for America and its economic aid, then reaffirmed his nation's stand against ousting Fidel Castro's dictatorship from the inter-American system.

Goulart, in the United States for six days, was greeted by President Kennedy and received a ceremonial 21-gun salute at Andrews Air Force Base.

Later, he lunched at the White House and told Kennedy in a toast that Brazil looks to the United States' "enlightened government with great hopes."

"We are looking at the plans you are making," he said, "particularly the Alliance for Progress as a great contribution, helping the Latin-American nations to come ever closer to total economic fulfillment."

Later, Goulart addressed the Council of the Organization of American States.

Seven Astronauts Decline Offers Of Houston Homes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The seven U.S. astronauts decided Tuesday not to accept spanking new $24,000 gift homes in Houston, Tex., after all.

Their attorney, C. Leo DeOrsey had decided it would be perfectly all right for the men to accept the homes, plus furnishings, although he said he had consulted only one of the seven about the offer.

Some questions were raised about the propriety of the gifts, however, and the seven spacemen announced through the National Aeronautics and Space Administration that they were declining.

The NASA statement said the astronauts believe the offer by the Houston Homebuilders Association was made in good faith, but it added:

"They now feel, however, that the motives of the people who made the offer and their acceptance might be misunderstood."

NASA is building a $90-million manned space flight center at Houston and the astronauts are expected to move there this summer. They expressed gratitude "to the people of Houston for their wonderful hospitality and for this very generous offer."

An official announcement said: "NASA has determined that there is no legal bar to acceptance of the offer. As a matter of policy, however, NASA has advised the astronauts that acceptance of the houses is not considered to be in the best interest of all concerned.

"At the same time NASA specified that final decision should be made by the seven men.

"After considering all factors, the seven men, in consultation with their attorney . . . have determined to decline the offer."

The attorney, DeOrsey, had said earlier he was convinced that the offer by "hero worshipping" builders was okay, but that if the White House indicated it thought otherwise the astronauts would turn it down.

Four Firemen Die In Blast

NORWICH, Conn. (AP) — A truckload of chemicals exploded outside a storage plant Tuesday and killed four firemen. The blast touched off a fire and a series of explosions that demolished the building.

Three of the firemen were hurled over the top of the building. Another landed 150 feet away in the opposite direction.

Four other persons, including two more firemen, were hurt.

17 Injured, Five Die In Bad Blaze

Firemen Rescue Many Patrons In Gambling District

At least one hotel patron was killed and 17 others injured. There were unconfirmed reports four more may have died.

Police said 70 of the hotel's estimated 140 guests were unaccounted for, including three of the floor show girls. Presumably, most of them were safe but just hadn't reported to anyone.

Smoke from the New Golden Hotel fire routed patrons at nearby Harold's Club—where Harold Smith Sr. played a violin to quiet the crowd as it filed out.

Two upper floors of the 56-year-old hotel collapsed shortly after guests either had fled or were hauled down ladders.

Body Unidentified

The body of an unidentified woman was taken from the flame-swept hotel to an emergency morgue.

Sam Saibini, battalion fire chief who earlier listed the dead at five, said later he might be mistaken but: "It doesn't take much smoke to kill and there's a hell of a lot of it in that building."

Others reported missing were ventriloquist Jay Nemoth and clown Joe Tannino.

Starts In Basement

The fire broke out in the hotel basement at 7 a.m. An exploding boiler was blamed.

At noon, with the flames still out of control, Nevada's governor ordered a State Forest Service plane into action. It flew low and bombed the tottering building with a fire-retardent solution.

The New Golden's front wall collapsed into the street as 25 fire crews battled the flames. The rear wall gave way at one end shortly afterward. Then the two upper floors collapsed.

The hotel's ground-floor casino was a smoldering ruin of charred dice tables and twisted slot machines before the fire was an hour old.

Dreams Are Gone

"I've lost the hopes and dreams of a lifetime," he said. "Rebuild? I can't think of that right now. I think there are people still in there."

Pretty showgirl Jackie Bonwell, lead dancer in the hotel's bare-bosom floor show, said the fire cost her "the best job I've ever had. I never screamed in my life but I did today."

Firemen frantically smashed windows in an effort to get everyone out. They reported hearing a man's screams but could not find him.

One woman handed her 6-month-old son to firemen before crawling to safety.

6,500 Men Face Draft In June

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department today called for a draft of 6,500 men in June for the Army.

This is an increase of 500 over the calls for March, April and May.

The Pentagon said the June call has been computed by the Army to cover manpower losses and to maintain approved Army strength which stood at 1,102,515 on March 1.

Legality Of Prayer In Public School Is Argued Before U.S. Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court heard Tuesday an attack on constitutionality of the reciting daily of a 22-word prayer in New York State's public schools.

Counsel for five parents who objected to the prayer argued that the effect of the prayers was to aid religion in violation of the constitutional principle of separation of church and state.

Opposing lawyers replied that recognition of God in public prayer is part of the national heritage and that the Constitution's first amendment was intended to prohibit a state religion but not to prevent the growth of a religious state.

The New York State Board of Regents, governing body of the public school system, recommended to local school boards that this prayer be spoken daily in opening exercises: "Almighty God, we acknowledge our dependence upon Thee, and we beg Thy blessings upon us, our parents, our teachers and our country."

Two parents of the Jewish faith, one member each of the Unitarian Church and the Society for Ethical Culture and one professed nonbeliever objected to use of the prayer in schools attended by their children in New Hyde Park, N.Y.

They appealed to the Supreme Court after New York State courts ruled the use of the prayer in school did not violate the U.S. Constitution.

Watchdog Is Credited With Fugitives' Capture

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)—A dog's insistent barking kept his mistress awake most of the night but paid off with the capture Tuesday of five convicts who escaped San Quentin Prison.

"Duke deserves all the credit, he's a wonderful watchdog," declared Mrs. Dorothy Worley, whose Santa Venetia home is only 10 miles north of San Quentin.

She spotted three of the fugitives on a wooded hillside about 8 a.m. when she looked out a window. Mrs. Worley had looked out vainly during the night, trying to see what excited Duke, a brown mixed-breed boxer and shepherd.

She looked out again when her daughter, Donna, was ready to start for school. "She has two blocks to walk to the bus, and I wanted to know then what Duke was barking at," she said.

Mrs. Worley telephoned the sheriff, and San Quentin guards rounded up all five fugitives less than 30 minutes later. The convicts surrendered quietly.

Syrians Claim Peaceful Victory Over Rebellious Aleppo-Based Army Units

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syria's high command claimed a peaceful victory Tuesday night over Aleppo-based army units that rebelled in an effort to swing Syria back into the United Arab Republic. But it had paid a price in concessions.

Radio Damascus proclaimed what it called "the important and joyous news"—an army statement that the troops and officers in Aleppo, metropolis of the north, announced their loyalty to the high command and returned to their barracks.

"Things reverted to proper order in Aleppo, were calm and order prevail," the statement said.

It added that persons who attempted to subvert and influence the army units had fled. They were not identified by either name or nationality.

They were referred to as "those who infiltrated the ranks of the army and tried to fish in troubled waters and cause shedding of innocent blood."

The high command assured the Aleppo troops that resolutions of the Homs conference will be realized.

The conference was a meeting of Syrian military leaders Sunday at Homs, roughly midway between Damascus and Aleppo, at which pro-U.A.R. officers made their demands for restoration of ties with President Gamal Abdel Nasser's government which were broken by an army revolt last Sept. 28.

One result was the exile of seven junta officers influential in both the Sept. 28 revolt and in the bloodless coup March 28 which unseated President Nazemhel Koudsi's conservative regime.

The exiled group arrived in Switzerland Tuesday in a Syrian plane. The Swiss admitted them as tourists.

Though the Homs resolutions were not made public, political sources in Damascus said the conferees also considered formation of a new military council to replace the high command and creation of another civil government to negotiate some link with the U.A.R.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The seven U.S. astronauts decided Tuesday not to accept spanking new $24,000 gift homes in Houston, Tex., after all.

Their attorney, C. Leo DeOrsey had decided it would be perfectly all right for the men to accept the homes, plus furnishings, although he said he had consulted only one of the seven about the offer.

Some questions were raised about the propriety of the gifts, however, and the seven spacemen announced through the National Aeronautics and Space Administration that they were declining.

The NASA statement said the astronauts believe the offer by the Houston Homebuilders Association was made in good faith, but it added:

"They now feel, however, that the motives of the people who made the offer and their acceptance might be misunderstood."

NASA is building a $90-million manned space flight center at Houston and the astronauts are expected to move there this summer. They expressed gratitude "to the people of Houston for their wonderful hospitality and for this very generous offer."

An official announcement said: "NASA has determined that there is no legal bar to acceptance of the offer. As a matter of policy, however, NASA has advised the astronauts that acceptance of the houses is not considered to be in the best interest of all concerned.

"At the same time NASA specified that final decision should be made by the seven men.

"After considering all factors, the seven men, in consultation with their attorney . . . have determined to decline the offer."

The attorney, DeOrsey, had said earlier he was convinced that the offer by "hero worshipping" builders was okay, but that if the White House indicated it thought otherwise the astronauts would turn it down.

Four Firemen Die In Blast

NORWICH, Conn. (AP) — A truckload of chemicals exploded outside a storage plant Tuesday and killed four firemen. The blast touched off a fire and a series of explosions that demolished the building.

Three of the firemen were hurled over the top of the building. Another landed 150 feet away in the opposite direction.

Four other persons, including two more firemen, were hurt.

17 Injured, Five Die In Bad Blaze

Firemen Rescue Many Patrons In Gambling District

At least one hotel patron was killed and 17 others injured. There were unconfirmed reports four more may have died.

Police said 70 of the hotel's estimated 140 guests were unaccounted for, including three of the floor show girls. Presumably, most of them were safe but just hadn't reported to anyone.

Smoke from the New Golden Hotel fire routed patrons at nearby Harold's Club—where Harold Smith Sr. played a violin to quiet the crowd as it filed out.

Two upper floors of the 56-year-old hotel collapsed shortly after guests either had fled or were hauled down ladders.

Body Unidentified

The body of an unidentified woman was taken from the flame-swept hotel to an emergency morgue.

Sam Saibini, battalion fire chief who earlier listed the dead at five, said later he might be mistaken but: "It doesn't take much smoke to kill and there's a hell of a lot of it in that building."

Starts In Basement

The fire broke out in the hotel basement at 7 a.m. An exploding boiler was blamed.

At noon, with the flames still out of control, Nevada's governor ordered a State Forest Service plane into action. It flew low and bombed the tottering building with a fire-retardent solution.

The New Golden's front wall collapsed into the street as 25 fire crews battled the flames. The rear wall gave way at one end shortly afterward. Then the two upper floors collapsed.

The hotel's ground-floor casino was a smoldering ruin of charred dice tables and twisted slot machines before the fire was an hour old.

Dreams Are Gone

"I've lost the hopes and dreams of a lifetime," he said. "Rebuild? I can't think of that right now. I think there are people still in there."

Pretty showgirl Jackie Bonwell, lead dancer in the hotel's bare-bosom floor show, said the fire cost her "the best job I've ever had. I never screamed in my life but I did today."

Firemen frantically smashed windows in an effort to get everyone out. They reported hearing a man's screams but could not find him.

One woman handed her 6-month-old son to firemen before crawling to safety.

6,500 Men Face Draft In June

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department today called for a draft of 6,500 men in June for the Army.

This is an increase of 500 over the calls for March, April and May.

The Pentagon said the June call has been computed by the Army to cover manpower losses and to maintain approved Army strength which stood at 1,102,515 on March 1.

Legality Of Prayer In Public School Is Argued Before U.S. Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court heard Tuesday an attack on constitutionality of the reciting daily of a 22-word prayer in New York State's public schools.

Counsel for five parents who objected to the prayer argued that the effect of the prayers was to aid religion in violation of the constitutional principle of separation of church and state.

Opposing lawyers replied that recognition of God in public prayer is part of the national heritage and that the Constitution's first amendment was intended to prohibit a state religion but not to prevent the growth of a religious state.

The New York State Board of Regents, governing body of the public school system, recommended to local school boards that this prayer be spoken daily in opening exercises: "Almighty God, we acknowledge our dependence upon Thee, and we beg Thy blessings upon us, our parents, our teachers and our country."

Two parents of the Jewish faith, one member each of the Unitarian Church and the Society for Ethical Culture and one professed nonbeliever objected to use of the prayer in schools attended by their children in New Hyde Park, N.Y.

They appealed to the Supreme Court after New York State courts ruled the use of the prayer in school did not violate the U.S. Constitution.

Watchdog Is Credited With Fugitives' Capture

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)—A dog's insistent barking kept his mistress awake most of the night but paid off with the capture Tuesday of five convicts who escaped San Quentin Prison.

"Duke deserves all the credit, he's a wonderful watchdog," declared Mrs. Dorothy Worley, whose Santa Venetia home is only 10 miles north of San Quentin.

She spotted three of the fugitives on a wooded hillside about 8 a.m. when she looked out a window. Mrs. Worley had looked out vainly during the night, trying to see what excited Duke, a brown mixed-breed boxer and shepherd.

She looked out again when her daughter, Donna, was ready to start for school. "She has two blocks to walk to the bus, and I wanted to know then what Duke was barking at," she said.

Mrs. Worley telephoned the sheriff, and San Quentin guards rounded up all five fugitives less than 30 minutes later. The convicts surrendered quietly.

Syrians Claim Peaceful Victory Over Rebellious Aleppo-Based Army Units

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syria's high command claimed a peaceful victory Tuesday night over Aleppo-based army units that rebelled in an effort to swing Syria back into the United Arab Republic. But it had paid a price in concessions.

Radio Damascus proclaimed what it called "the important and joyous news"—an army statement that the troops and officers in Aleppo, metropolis of the north, announced their loyalty to the high command and returned to their barracks.

"Things reverted to proper order in Aleppo, were calm and order prevail," the statement said.

It added that persons who attempted to subvert and influence the army units had fled. They were not identified by either name or nationality.

They were referred to as "those who infiltrated the ranks of the army and tried to fish in troubled waters and cause shedding of innocent blood."

The high command assured the Aleppo troops that resolutions of the Homs conference will be realized.

The conference was a meeting of Syrian military leaders Sunday at Homs, roughly midway between Damascus and Aleppo, at which pro-U.A.R. officers made their demands for restoration of ties with President Gamal Abdel Nasser's government which were broken by an army revolt last Sept. 28.

One result was the exile of seven junta officers influential in both the Sept. 28 revolt and in the bloodless coup March 28 which unseated President Nazemhel Koudsi's conservative regime.

The exiled group arrived in Switzerland Tuesday in a Syrian plane. The Swiss admitted them as tourists.

Though the Homs resolutions were not made public, political sources in Damascus said the conferees also considered formation of a new military council to replace the high command and creation of another civil government to negotiate some link with the U.A.R.

Liz Taylor, Richard Burton Are Silent On Romance

ROME (AP)—Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton, leading players in filmland's latest marriage breakup, said their lines without a hitch on a movie set Tuesday.

But neither had a word to say about Miss Taylor's break with singer Eddie Fisher, nor the reported efforts of Burton's wife to persuade him not to get entangled in marriage with Miss Taylor.

Both worked as usual at Rome's cincecitta where 20th Century Fox is racing to finish its expensive "Cleopatra." Miss Taylor plays the lead role. Burton, her Welsh kissing companion, plays Antony.

A day has passed since an attorney in New York announced that Miss Taylor and Fisher, her fourth husband, had come to the end of their three-year marriage.

Burton, famed Shakespearean actor, has erected a wall of silence around his activities. London-born Miss Taylor has yet to say a word publicly about the break of her marriage with Fisher.

Mrs. Burton, daughter of a Welsh mining engineer, flew to England last week with her 2-year-old daughter. Her only recorded comment on the rumors of her husband's romance is: "It's all a lot of nonsense."

But that was before lawyer Louis Nizer, representing both Miss Taylor and Fisher, made the only public statement in New York.

"Elizabeth and Eddie Fisher announce," he said, "that they have mutually agreed to part. Divorce proceedings will be instituted soon."

Before the announcement, however, Mrs. Burton's friends in London reported she sent an old friend and mentor of her husband's to Rome in an effort to save her marriage.

Maryland Drag Racer Sentenced

HYATTSVILLE, Md. (AP) — Alex J. Roberts Jr., 23, of Washington, has been sentenced to one year in the House of Correction for a drag-racing accident in which a woman was fatally injured.

Police said Roberts, a restaurant bus boy, was drag racing Feb. 4 near Mitchellville when his car struck the rear of an automobile driven by Frank Tonker, 53, of Greenbelt. Tonker was seriously injured and Mrs. Tonker, 54, died two days later in a hospital.

Judge R. Bowie Clagett of Peoples Court also sentenced Roberts to three years in jail for failing to stop after an accident and 30 days each on charges of speeding, reckless driving and racing. All of these latter sentences were suspended.

The kindergarten was made an integral part of the public school system of St. Louis in 1872.

State To Plan Entry At World's Fair

BALTIMORE (AP) — Officials planning Maryland's participation in the New York world's Fair in 1964-65 will ask the State Board of Public Works for $5,000 Wednesday to hire consultants.

C. Elmer Nolte Jr., chairman of a steering committee, said his group has agreed to hire Ivel Construction Co. of New York to develop a theme for the Maryland pavilion centered primarily on a restaurant. The board will be asked for the money at its meeting in Annapolis.

Nolte said the Ivel firm would make recommendations within two months after interviewing Maryland officials and touring the state.

The Maryland General Assembly appropriated $450,000 this year at the request of Gov. Tawes for the Maryland building at the fair. Planners envision a 250-seat "high class" restaurant and a 50-seat raw bar, both featuring Maryland cuisine ranging from oysters to fried chicken.

Maryland has been assigned a 35,000-square-foot area facing the U.S. pavilion at the fair grounds on Flushing Meadows.

CORE Official Claims He Was Misquoted By AP

BALTIMORE (AP) — A spokesman for the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) said Tuesday he was misquoted in ASSOCIATED PRESS accounts of the arrest of seven persons in or near an Adelphi, Md., restaurant Saturday.

The seven, all of whom were charged with trespass, included McKinley C. Olson, a reporter-photographer for the York (Pa.) Gazette and Daily.

The CORE official, Tom Schaeffer, said that at no time did he see Olson in the restaurant. The AP accounts of the arrests had said that the seven persons, including Olson, were arrested in the restaurant, scene of a demonstration against racial segregation.

Schaffer, who was identified only as a CORE spokesman in the previous stories, said he did not tell any reporter that Olson "was running all around trying to take pictures and just wouldn't get out," as reported in the previous sources.

What actually happened, Schaeffer said Tuesday, was that he invited Olson to sit in his car outside the restaurant property and Olson accepted. Subsequently, Schaeffer said, Olson steppted out of the car and took a pitcture or pictures from outside the restaurant.

At about that point, Schaeffer said, State Police ordered Olson to place his hands on top of a police car, along with the six demonstrators. All seven were searched, Schaeffer said, and then ordered into the car to be driven to a substation. All were released under bonds of $100 each.

Veep Receives Wise Award In Baltimore

Tells Audience Discrimination Being Eliminated

BALTIMORE (AP)—Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson predicted Tuesday night the Kennedy administration will wipe out more racial and religious discrimination in four years than has been eliminated in the previous 30.

Accepting the anti-discrimination award of the American Jewish Congress, Johnson said in a prepared speech the federal government must offer leadership in this area just as it has in the field of science.

"One problem is that scientific progress is so easy to identify," he said. "Progress in the field of human relations is often difficult to see or measure.

"But I am not prepared to accept muddy roads and horses and buggies as an inevitable part of life.

"We have go to believe that we can make this country a foremost example of what is possible for all the world.

"We must have confidence that we can make ours a society in which men and women of all races, religions and backgrounds can live under conditions of mutual respect and of true equality of opportunity. I believe that we can."

Johnson recalled than when he first went to Washington from Texas 30 years ago it was difficult for a Negro to get a government job of any importance of prestige.

"There's been a lot of change in the last 30 years," he said. "But there's room for a lot more.

Johnson said he is "against bigotry and discrimination because I think they are wrong."

"I am for human understanding, for equal justice, for equality of opportunity because I think they are right," he said. "May this country always be the kind where a man needs, and the people demand, no greater explanation than this."

The 1962 Stephen S. Wise medallion award was presented to Johnson by Dr. Joachim Prinz, national director of the American Jewish Congress, on behalf of the Maryland chapter. The award is named for the late Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, founder and longtime president of the congress.

Given Three Years In Counterfeit Case

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A Baltimore man arrested in a police raid on a Richmond apartment was sentenced to three years in prison Tuesday on a charge of possessing counterfeit money.

Edward W. Goodwin, 47, pleaded guilty in U.S. District Court to a charge of possessing $820 in counterfeit $20 bills.

Anti-Soviet Sentiment Seen Among Chinese

HONG KONG (AP)—Anti-Soviet sentiment is growing among the Chinese people, travelers from Communist China and sources close to the Chinese Communists here report.

This sentiment is said to be particularly strong among intellectuals and the people of North China and Manchuria.

Anti-Soviet feeling in China predates the Chinese Communist conquest of the mainland 12 years ago.

Travelers report the resurgence of anti-Soviet sentiment appears to be spontaneous. Peiping has had practically nothing to say to its people about its ideological dispute with Moscow.

It did publish the full text of accusations made by Albania against Soviet Premier Khrushchev several months ago.

Two arrivals in Hong Kong reported the Soviet rejection of substantial shipments of canned food from China provoked anti-Soviet sentiment in many cities.

The travellers say anti-Soviet sentiment does not take the form of slogan-shouting but teachers, students or workers often criticize the Soviet Union.

One traveler said he overheard a professor saying: "It looks like our No. 1 enemy is America and our No. 2 enemy is our big brother."

Bringing Up Baby®

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

At about 3 to 4 months a baby "comes of age" as a personality. Now baby recognizes you. Eyes light up at the sight of you; ears rejoice at the sound of your voice. Offer a smile and you'll probably get a smile back. Look and you'll see little fingers dare to play, to touch. Listen and you'll hear new coos in his self-styled vocabulary.

Now's the time to help baby up the ladder of learning by encouraging his efforts, stimulating his imagination. Watch that personality blossom!

The growth picture. Your baby grows faster the first year than the next few put together. That's why he needs plenty of protein . . . the most important "growing tool" in his diet. Gerber Strained Meats, made from selected Armour cuts, are high in protein; good sources of iron and niacin, an important B-vitamin.

• Gerber Strained Meats are easy to digest because most of the fat and fiber is removed.

Helping hand dept. "Will too much attention spoil a baby?" asks many a mother. Well, experts today say that, in general, babies whose emotional needs are satisfied at an early age make fewer demands later on. After all, when you cuddle your baby for comfort or croon away his loneliness, you're giving him a sense of security and helping him to develop into a happy, well-adjusted personality.

Nutrition notation. Specially prepared baby cereals play an important role in your baby's diet because of the special nutrients they supply. Gerber Cereals are enriched with the iron babies need shortly after birth. (Milk does not supply enough for babies' needs.) In addition, they contain calcium and important B-vitamins. Gerber Baby Foods, Fremont, Michigan.

Bringing Up Baby®

At about 3 to 4 months a baby "comes of age" as a personality. Now baby recognizes you. Eyes light up at the sight of you; ears rejoice at the sound of your voice. Offer a smile and you'll probably get a smile back. Look and you'll see little fingers dare to play, to touch. Listen and you'll hear new coos in his self-styled vocabulary.

Now's the time to help baby up the ladder of learning by encouraging his efforts, stimulating his imagination. Watch that personality blossom!

The growth picture. Your baby grows faster the first year than the next few put together. That's why he needs plenty of protein . . . the most important "growing tool" in his diet. Gerber Strained Meats, made from selected Armour cuts, are high in protein; good sources of iron and niacin, an important B-vitamin.

• Gerber Strained Meats are easy to digest because most of the fat and fiber is removed.

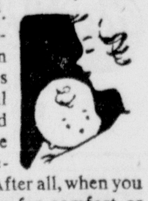
Helping hand dept. "Will too much attention spoil a baby?" asks many a mother. Well, experts today say that, in general, babies whose emotional needs are satisfied at an early age make fewer demands later on. After all, when you cuddle your baby for comfort or croon away his loneliness, you're giving him a sense of security and helping him to develop into a happy, well-adjusted personality.



Nutrition notation. Specially prepared baby cereals play an important role in your baby's diet because of the special nutrients they supply. Gerber Cereals are enriched with the iron babies need shortly after birth. (Milk does not supply enough for babies' needs.) In addition, they contain calcium and important B-vitamins. Work On Parking Lot Starts Today

Work starts today on what will be downtown Cumberland's largest automobile parking facility, according to officials of the Goodfellow Realty and Storage Company who said the lot will be privately operated.

The new parking lot will be an L-shaped facility running from South George Street 100 feet in a westerly direction, and then 260 feet north to Henry Street. In all, there will be 40,000 square feet of surface available for parking, an area on which it is estimated 125 cars can efficiently be handled.

The land on which the parking lot will be situated along George Street formerly was occupied by the Public Service Market. That property was purchased from the Stanley Butler heirs and the market building torn down. Grading and surfacing of that portion of the property will start today, the Goodfellow firm announced.

The realty and storage company presently operates two warehouses, and plans call for the smaller one to be leveled with the work also starting today. The firm recently purchased another small building at the Henry Street end of its small warehouse from Miss Helene P. McKee. That also will be leveled.

Officials of the Goodfellow firm said parking will get started as soon as blacktop is placed, and that the entire area will be available by May 1.

The spokesmen said present plans call for the larger of the warehouses to remain in operation, but that it is expected that structure also will be leveled in time and the area made available for more parking. Such a move, it was stated would expand the parking area to 53,000 square feet.

Magistrate Fatkin said: "This case to me is one in which I can see an element of danger—the fact you stopped your car and attempted to lure these youngsters into your car.

"In a court of this type where you deal with children and have the responsibility of protecting these children, cases cannot be taken lightly, but must be considered of a serious nature.

Commissioners Get Civil Defense Report

Charles G. Smith, director of the Allegany County Civil Defense program, yesterday wrote the county commissioners concerning the operation of his department during the past few weeks.

He said that the Frostburg Volunteer Fire Company had donated $397.50 to the CD program, that expenses of $854.91 were incurred during February and that a supplemental emergency alert system for industries had been arranged.

Amateur radio clubs of the county have joined in the program of communicating and the federally-sponsored survey of shelter programs is underway.

The Baker, Wibberly and Associates of Hagerstown are conducting the shelter survey. The federal government is paying the entire cost of $29,000 for this work.

Gene Bucher, pastor of Sunnyside and Knobley churches; "Teaching Children," Mrs. Emerson Loar of Centre Street Methodist Church, and "The Life and Work of Paul," Wallace G. Ullery of Living Stone Church.

The class by Ullery will be for junior high and youth pupils of the churches, according to Rev. Mr. Chaney, who said classes will be available for children who attend the various meetings with their parents.

Lester McGill, O. J. Riley and M. G. McKenzie, projects, and Lester Sherman, James Glover and Frederick Willison, devotions.

County Seeking Sanitary Loan

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday approved the application which the County Sanitary Commission will submit to the Housing and Home Administration for a $58,000 loan for engineering surveys for a sanitary district.

Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the board, told the board that the application for funds is another step in having the Bowling Green, Potomac Park and Roberts Place sewage disposal system installed.

The federal loan is without interest provided it is paid back when construction starts on the project. The county board will float a bond issue when the necessary financial data is compiled from the engineering surveys which will denote the scope of the system.

The bond will be paid by the residents of the affected area but will be issued on the full faith and credit of the county.

Pulpwood Group Not Delivering

The Tri-State Pulpwood Association Inc. in a statement issued following a meeting Monday in Union Hall, Westernport, said its members by unanimous vote decided to continue the policy of not delivering wood by truck to the Luke Mill of West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

The association has asked for what it terms a modest increase in prices.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What can I do about my husband? He is a collector. He doesn't collect things of value, you understand. That would make too much sense. He collects only junk.

Wendell still has the suit he was married in (25 years ago). Of course he can't button it but he says the style might come back and then maybe he'll go on a diet.

Our basement is a nightmare. I cry whenever I have to go down there to do the washing. He has magazines stacked up from 1935, also books he had when he was in Sunday school. And then there is the furniture from his mother's old house.

Two years ago I couldn't stand the way he had cluttered up our clothes closets. I gave him ten days warning and then threw out a lot of trash, including his Eagle Scout uniform. He was so mad he wouldn't speak to me for a week. What's the answer? -- COLLECTOR'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Life with a pack rat isn't easy.

Resolve never to look behind it. Let him pile up anything and everything behind that curtain but make it plain that he's got to fit in all the junk.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing in regard to the pregnant woman who was embarrassed because she had to go to the doctor's office for checkups without a wedding ring. It seems she had lost her wedding ring and her husband was mad at her for being careless and wouldn't buy her another one.

I read that column in the doctor's waiting room. I was there for a checkup, too. My baby is due next month. I am not wearing a wedding ring either. My hands swelled up three months ago. I looked around and there were four other women also obviously expecting. Two of them were not wearing rings.

I turned to the ringless woman next to me and asked when she stopped wearing her rings. She replied, "I had to have mine cut off in the fourth month. My fingers ballooned up almost overnight."

Thought you'd like to know. — PUFFY BUT HAPPY

DEAR HAPPY: Thanks for writing. And thanks, too, all you warm-hearted readers who sent wedding rings with instructions to forward them to the ringless mother-to-be.

You are terribly kind but sorry, no can do. One of you gave me no return address. May I have it so I can send back the lovely ring.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 15 and need help. My mother thinks you are the living end. If you back me up my worries are over.

I like to study with the radio or TV on full blast. My mother says nobody can concentrate with all that noise. It so happens that I can't concentrate without it. I've tried studying in the quiet and the silence gets on my nerves. I actually need a background of racket before I can think.

Please tell her that such a thing is possible. She won't believe me. — NOISE LOVER

DEAR LOVER: People who concentrate best when surrounded by a lot of racket have trained themselves to do this. Noise is not a natural companion of meditation and reflection.

This is not a particularly good study habit and you'd be wise to kick it. One of these days you may have to concentrate in a quiet classroom — or in an office. Then what? (Sorry if I crossed you up, Pal, but I had to level with you).

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

In bridge as in other fields of endeavor, the severity of the punishment may at times exceed the extent of the crime. Today we have on record an extreme case where a seemingly innocuous overcall rode to a 1,700 point set when the defenders exacted the last ounce of profit from their opportunity.

East opened the bidding with one diamond, and South overcalled with one spade, certainly a reasonable choice. Since West was looking forward to the prospect of making that very bid himself, he doubled for penalties and all hands passed.

West opened the queen of diamonds and East overtook with the king in order to make a trump play thru declarer. South's jack went to the king, and West returned the jack of diamonds. East overtook once more, but declarer ruffed for his first and only trick.

The king of clubs was led next and East was in with the ace to lead another trump. South played the nine which West covered with the ten. At this point he could have just played the ace and another spade in order to drive out declarer's last trump, but West wished to obtain another spade lead by partner if possible, so he shifted to a heart.

East produced the ace of hearts, followed by the five of spades which administered the fatal potion to South. West held the ace, eight, deuce of trumps behind the queen-seven and, after picking up the suit, he cashed the king of hearts and the deuce of spades, and then led a diamond enabling East to win the last two tricks with high diamonds.

The defenders took 12 tricks in all. Tho if they had played the hand themselves, their limit would have been 11 tricks.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Fit — The Final Word In Fashion

There are three ways to select your clothes: by the eye, by the figure (your own, not the dollar sign), or by a considered pairing of eye-plus-figure appeal.

The eye elements are important: color, coordination with your wardrobe, suitability of a fashion to your personality and of its price tag to your budget. Equally important is the figure factor — any dress suit or coat you purchase should enhance the best lines of your figure, minimize others.

There still is the combination question :does the fashion fit? If alterations are necessary, will the end result be perfection? Or might they add so much to the initial cost of a garment that it is no longer a good buy?

My fashion consultant advises you to check the original fit, or practical "alter-ability" at these points:

Shoulders. Do they "sit" properly? The hang of a jacket depends on this.

Back. Is there enough fabric to "span" the back when you move your shoulders forward?

Collar. Does it hug the neck? Creases below the collar in back are a dead giveaway of poor fit .

Sides. Do they lie smoothly, or do they wrinkle when the jacket is worn over a blouse?

Sleeves. Do they hit your wristbone? Half an inch above or below makes a big (and unfortunate) difference .

Waistline. Does it fit snugly, without pulling at the fastener? When alteration is to be made by letting out or taking in the waistband, be sure the zipper is removed and fitting done at both sides.

Hips. Is the hipline smooth? If fabric draws and wrinkles just below the beltline when you walk or sit, the skirt is too tight.

Hemline. It must be straight.

In having a dress fitted, be particularly careful that the waistline coincides with your own. Too short, and the dress will appear skimpy; too long, and it will buckle in back, since the waistline will be over your hips.

The U.S.A. birth rate had its all-time low of 18.4 during the depression years. The postwar baby boom and, later, continued economic prosperity combined to shore up the rate and keep it up; in 1960, the rate was 23.9.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD. — Lucille Ball, who is being as secretive as the CIA about her new TV series even to letting her best friends guess the plot and who will be in it, will be surprised to read here that I know her co-star is Vivian Vance: Yes, her old sidekick from the "I Love Lucy" series will repeat as Lucille's girlfriend.

When Vivian married literary agent John Dodds and retired from TV, she swore she'd never make another series and just bask in her residuals (still pouring in) from "Lucy."

But on a recent trip to the coast from Connecticut, where Vivian has been living, Lucy talked her into changing her mind. Vivian arrives in August to get out the make-up kit again.

Whether you care for his unusual name or not, Rip Torn is tearing ahead from one important picture to another. He joins Lucille Ball and Bob Hope at Warner Brothers in "Critic's Choice" playing the stage director Bob feels is stealing his wife (Lucille). I believe this is Rip's first comedy in a long time. He's been busy on both the stage and screen in "Sweet Bird of Youth" with his favorite lady friend Geraldine Page.

Speaking of his name, I'm sure Rip must have been amused at a letter to the editor of a national magazine signed by a man named Rip Torn—and proud of it—who adds, "it's a perfectly good American name and nothing funny about it."

There's been a rumor that Michael Wilding was planning to hurry to Rome were his two handsome sons are living in the midst of all the hullabaloo, but Michael denied it.

He said, "I was there four months ago and saw my two boys. They are wonderful children. At that time there didn't seem to be any trouble between Elizabeth and Eddie Fisher. I don't know what's happened, but I do not intend to go to Italy at this time."

One of Susan Nell's (Mrs. Wilding) complaints was that Michael had never gotten Elizabeth out of his system and was always wanting to go to Rome to see his children. Michael is a gentle, kindly person who has never criticized his ex-wife, the siren of the Nile, in any way, shape or matter.

The offer Ingrid Bergman received from Sam Spiegel to star in "The Case," which will be made in Texas and Hollywood, was turned down. The reason Ingrid gave is that Roberto Rossellini will not allow their three children to be brought to the U.S. and Ingrid refuses to be away from them for as long as it would take to make the picture in this country.

The offer was made when Ingrid and her husband Lars Schmidt visisted the location of "Lawrence of Arabia" in Spain. While she was there, Ingrid discussed with Tony Quinn their teaming in "The Visit," even though it has been postponed by 20th Century-Fox.

Marlon Brando has acquired the rights to the story of Jimmy Dean, whose short and tragic life has captured his imagination. Marlon will not play Jimmy, but he will direct the Dean story after he finishes "The Ugly American."

I asked if Marlon and Jimmy had been good friends. I was told that they were just acquaintnaces, but that Marlon had greatly admired Jimmy and his work on the screen.

There's a very good chance that talented Paul Anka will get the part of the younger brother opposite Frank Sinatra in "Come Blow Your Horn." Frank's partner Howard Koch is huddling with Paul in New York.

Sammy Cahn, who is preparing the score for "Come Blow Your Horn" suggested Paul, for whom he is preparing a new nightclub act.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Prince Rainier has said quite openly he hopes the premiere of Princess Grace's picture, "Marnie," will be staged in Monaco, if for no other reason than to cancel the legend once and for all that he has banned Grace's old movies from being shown in the principality.

Prince Alfonse Hohenlohe, ex-husband of Princess Ira Von Furstenberg who is now married to Baby Pignatari, has told reporters that he has no intention of marrying Kim Novak, with whom he was reported romancing. Says the prince, "in the eyes of my church I am still married."

Patients sitting in a Beverly Hills doctor's waiting room just about had high blood pressure when they saw Rock Hudson seated too. But Rock wasn't sick —just waiting for his girlfriend— Marilyn Maxwell.

Maximilian Schell, who has more talent than any one man deserves, has just written Broadway play which he has submitted to Freddie Brisson. There is no part in it for Max.

After saying he would never play Las Vegas, Pat Broone has changed his mind and listened to the siren song of Milton Prell, of the Shara. He opens there July 24 for four weeks.

Lucky that Marusia wore about $250,000 worth of her jewels at her twist party Saturday night, because they would have been stolen with her other jewelry.

Congratulations to Hazel and Irwin Franklyn, who celebrate their 37th wedding anniversary Thursday.

The only restaurant in town where you'll hear all the operas is at Paul Verlengia's Four Trees. Paul sings his heart out every night and knows all the Italian operas. He's imported a piano player who also knows them. However he varies this with popular music. It was amazing to hear, in these days of twist, everyone joining in with Paul in song.

What's happened to Jane Fonda? When she first came here I thought she was one of the sweetest young girls I had ever met. Now she is bitter about everybody and everything, including Hollywood which has been very good to her. She has leased a home in Malibu and will be a neighbor of Jim Hutton and his family, possibly to get a few tips from Mrs. Hutton or how to play Jim's wife in "Period of Adjustment."

Resolve never to look behind it. Let him pile up anything and everything behind that curtain but make it plain that he's got to fit in all the junk.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing in regard to the pregnant woman who was embarrassed because she had to go to the doctor's office for checkups without a wedding ring. It seems she had lost her wedding ring and her husband was mad at her for being careless and wouldn't buy her another one.

I read that column in the doctor's waiting room. I was there for a checkup, too. My baby is due next month. I am not wearing a wedding ring either. My hands swelled up three months ago. I looked around and there were four other women also obviously expecting. Two of them were not wearing rings.

I turned to the ringless woman next to me and asked when she stopped wearing her rings. She replied, "I had to have mine cut off in the fourth month. My fingers ballooned up almost overnight."

Thought you'd like to know. — PUFFY BUT HAPPY

DEAR HAPPY: Thanks for writing. And thanks, too, all you warm-hearted readers who sent wedding rings with instructions to forward them to the ringless mother-to-be.

You are terribly kind but sorry, no can do. One of you gave me no return address. May I have it so I can send back the lovely ring.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 15 and need help. My mother thinks you are the living end. If you back me up my worries are over.

I like to study with the radio or TV on full blast. My mother says nobody can concentrate with all that noise. It so happens that I can't concentrate without it. I've tried studying in the quiet and the silence gets on my nerves. I actually need a background of racket before I can think.

Please tell her that such a thing is possible. She won't believe me. — NOISE LOVER

DEAR LOVER: People who concentrate best when surrounded by a lot of racket have trained themselves to do this. Noise is not a natural companion of meditation and reflection.

This is not a particularly good study habit and you'd be wise to kick it. One of these days you may have to concentrate in a quiet classroom — or in an office. Then what? (Sorry if I crossed you up, Pal, but I had to level with you).

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

In bridge as in other fields of endeavor, the severity of the punishment may at times exceed the extent of the crime. Today we have on record an extreme case where a seemingly innocuous overcall rode to a 1,700 point set when the defenders exacted the last ounce of profit from their opportunity.

East opened the bidding with one diamond, and South overcalled with one spade, certainly a reasonable choice. Since West was looking forward to the prospect of making that very bid himself, he doubled for penalties and all hands passed.

West opened the queen of diamonds and East overtook with the king in order to make a trump play thru declarer. South's jack went to the king, and West returned the jack of diamonds. East overtook once more, but declarer ruffed for his first and only trick.

The king of clubs was led next and East was in with the ace to lead another trump. South played the nine which West covered with the ten. At this point he could have just played the ace and another spade in order to drive out declarer's last trump, but West wished to obtain another spade lead by partner if possible, so he shifted to a heart.

East produced the ace of hearts, followed by the five of spades which administered the fatal potion to South. West held the ace, eight, deuce of trumps behind the queen-seven and, after picking up the suit, he cashed the king of hearts and the deuce of spades, and then led a diamond enabling East to win the last two tricks with high diamonds.

The defenders took 12 tricks in all. Tho if they had played the hand themselves, their limit would have been 11 tricks.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Fit — The Final Word In Fashion

There are three ways to select your clothes: by the eye, by the figure (your own, not the dollar sign), or by a considered pairing of eye-plus-figure appeal.

The eye elements are important: color, coordination with your wardrobe, suitability of a fashion to your personality and of its price tag to your budget. Equally important is the figure factor — any dress suit or coat you purchase should enhance the best lines of your figure, minimize others.

There still is the combination question :does the fashion fit? If alterations are necessary, will the end result be perfection? Or might they add so much to the initial cost of a garment that it is no longer a good buy?

My fashion consultant advises you to check the original fit, or practical "alter-ability" at these points:

Shoulders. Do they "sit" properly? The hang of a jacket depends on this.

Back. Is there enough fabric to "span" the back when you move your shoulders forward?

Collar. Does it hug the neck? Creases below the collar in back are a dead giveaway of poor fit.

Sides. Do they lie smoothly, or do they wrinkle when the jacket is worn over a blouse?

Sleeves. Do they hit your wristbone? Half an inch above or below makes a big (and unfortunate) difference.

Waistline. Does it fit snugly, without pulling at the fastener? When alteration is to be made by letting out or taking in the waistband, be sure the zipper is removed and fitting done at both sides.

Hips. Is the hipline smooth? If fabric draws and wrinkles just below the beltline when you walk or sit, the skirt is too tight.

Hemline. It must be straight.

In having a dress fitted, be particularly careful that the waistline coincides with your own. Too short, and the dress will appear skimpy; too long, and it will buckle in back, since the waistline will be over your hips.

The U.S.A. birth rate had its all-time low of 18.4 during the depression years. The postwar baby boom and, later, continued economic prosperity combined to shore up the rate and keep it up; in 1960, the rate was 23.9.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD. — Lucille Ball, who is being as secretive as the CIA about her new TV series even to letting her best friends guess the plot and who will be in it, will be surprised to read here that I know her co-star is Vivian Vance: Yes, her old sidekick from the "I Love Lucy" series will repeat as Lucille's girlfriend.

When Vivian married literary agent John Dodds and retired from TV, she swore she'd never make another series and just bask in her residuals (still pouring in) from "Lucy."

But on a recent trip to the coast from Connecticut, where Vivian has been living, Lucy talked her into changing her mind. Vivian arrives in August to get out the make-up kit again.

Whether you care for his unusual name or not, Rip Torn is tearing ahead from one important picture to another. He joins Lucille Ball and Bob Hope at Warner Brothers in "Critic's Choice" playing the stage director Bob feels is stealing his wife (Lucille). I believe this is Rip's first comedy in a long time. He's been busy on both the stage and screen in "Sweet Bird of Youth" with his favorite lady friend Geraldine Page.

Speaking of his name, I'm sure Rip must have been amused at a letter to the editor of a national magazine signed by a man named Rip Torn—and proud of it—who adds, "it's a perfectly good American name and nothing funny about it."

There's been a rumor that Michael Wilding was planning to hurry to Rome were his two handsome sons are living in the midst of all the hullabaloo, but Michael denied it.

He said, "I was there four months ago and saw my two boys. They are wonderful children. At that time there didn't seem to be any trouble between Elizabeth and Eddie Fisher. I don't know what's happened, but I do not intend to go to Italy at this time."

One of Susan Nell's (Mrs. Wilding) complaints was that Michael had never gotten Elizabeth out of his system and was always wanting to go to Rome to see his children. Michael is a gentle, kindly person who has never criticized his ex-wife, the siren of the Nile, in any way, shape or matter.

The offer Ingrid Bergman received from Sam Spiegel to star in "The Case," which will be made in Texas and Hollywood, was turned down. The reason Ingrid gave is that Roberto Rossellini will not allow their three children to be brought to the U.S. and Ingrid refuses to be away from them for as long as it would take to make the picture in this country.

The offer was made when Ingrid and her husband Lars Schmidt visisted the location of "Lawrence of Arabia" in Spain. While she was there, Ingrid discussed with Tony Quinn their teaming in "The Visit," even though it has been postponed by 20th Century-Fox.

Marlon Brando has acquired the rights to the story of Jimmy Dean, whose short and tragic life has captured his imagination. Marlon will not play Jimmy, but he will direct the Dean story after he finishes "The Ugly American."

I asked if Marlon and Jimmy had been good friends. I was told that they were just acquaintnaces, but that Marlon had greatly admired Jimmy and his work on the screen.

There's a very good chance that talented Paul Anka will get the part of the younger brother opposite Frank Sinatra in "Come Blow Your Horn." Frank's partner Howard Koch is huddling with Paul in New York.

Sammy Cahn, who is preparing the score for "Come Blow Your Horn" suggested Paul, for whom he is preparing a new nightclub act.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Prince Rainier has said quite openly he hopes the premiere of Princess Grace's picture, "Marnie," will be staged in Monaco, if for no other reason than to cancel the legend once and for all that he has banned Grace's old movies from being shown in the principality.

Prince Alfonse Hohenlohe, ex-husband of Princess Ira Von Furstenberg who is now married to Baby Pignatari, has told reporters that he has no intention of marrying Kim Novak, with whom he was reported romancing. Says the prince, "in the eyes of my church I am still married."

Patients sitting in a Beverly Hills doctor's waiting room just about had high blood pressure when they saw Rock Hudson seated too. But Rock wasn't sick —just waiting for his girlfriend— Marilyn Maxwell.

Maximilian Schell, who has more talent than any one man deserves, has just written Broadway play which he has submitted to Freddie Brisson. There is no part in it for Max.

After saying he would never play Las Vegas, Pat Broone has changed his mind and listened to the siren song of Milton Preil, of the Shara. He opens there July 24 for four weeks.

Lucky that Marusia wore about $250,000 worth of her jewels at her twist party Saturday night, because they would have been stolen with her other jewelry.

Congratulations to Hazel and Irwin Franklyn, who celebrate their 37th wedding anniversary Thursday.

The only restaurant in town where you'll hear all the operas is at Paul Verlengia's Four Trees. Paul sings his heart out every night and knows all the Italian operas. He's imported a piano player who also knows them. However he varies this with popular music. It was amazing to hear, in these days of twist, everyone joining in with Paul in song.

What's happened to Jane Fonda? When she first came here I thought she was one of the sweetest young girls I had ever met. Now she is bitter about everybody and everything, including Hollywood which has been very good to her. She has leased a home in Malibu and will be a neighbor of Jim Hutton and his family, possibly to get a few tips from Mrs. Hutton or how to play Jim's wife in "Period of Adjustment."

Supreme Court Affirms W. Va. Income Tax Plan

Formal Opinion Will Be Issued

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — The West Virginia Supreme Court unanimously ruled Tuesday that the state's personal income tax is constitutional. A formal opinion setting forth the reasons for the court's decision will be issued later.

The four paragraph announcement by Judge Leslie E. Given said that the tax "is constitutional, insofar as its constitutionality is questioned and considered in the instant proceeding."

The order set aside and reversed a Wood County Circuit Court decree of Feb. 21 which held the tax was unconstitutional on two grounds.

Circuit Judge Donald F. Black of Parkersburg had ruled that the tax enacted by the 1961 legislature was invalid because it incorporated numerous exemptions provided under federal law. He said this was contrary to a state constitution provision allowing only an exemption "on incomes below a minimum level to be fixed from time to time."

Judge Black also had held that the house of delegates journal had failed to show a "case of urgency" when that body speeded final passage of the tax act. The delegates suspended the constitutional rule requiring a bill to be read on three separate days.

Ned H. Tanner of Parkersburg had brought the test action to block his employer from withholding the income tax from his wages.

Had the supreme court upheld Judge Black, the state's financial status would have been disrupted and a special session of the legislature would have been required.

The state operating budget enacted by the recent 1962 session for the 1962-63 fiscal year beginning next July 1 depends upon the income tax for $15 million in revenue. The state tax is 6 per cent of the amount paid the federal government.

Forestry Camp Official Talks At Lonaconing

Discusses Plans With Councilmen

LONACONING—The Mayor and Council of Lonaconing Monday night heard from David L. Curran, supervisor of the Maryland Boys Forestry Camps, who outlined the program and future plans of the camps and pledged cooperation with Lonaconing.

Mayor Harold Moyer also told Mr. Curran the town would cooperate with him. One of the camps is located in Garrett County west of Lonaconing.

In other action at the meeting, the council reversed the parking regulations on Douglas Avenue.

The town also reported Joseph McGregor, garbage collector, had been notified about several complaints of irregular garbage collection hours. Mr. McGregor reported in the future all collections will begin at 6 p. m.

Police reported at the meeting that several lights had been shot out with air rifles on Castle Hill. Parents were reminded the town has an ordinance against air rifles and anyone caught with them will be prosecuted.

The only other action included the approval of a building permit for J. Bradley Marshall who plans to enclose a porch at his property on Main Street.

Moderation Advocates Plan Drive

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— The executive committee of West Virginians for Moderation, which is spearheading the campaign for liquor by the drink, met here Monday and announced plans for a statewide organization to reach into each of the state's 2,750 precincts.

President Clem Jones, Huntington, said 13 regional directors will be appointed, along with county chairmen in each county. Jones said the organization hopes to complete selection of regional directors within the next few weeks.

A referendum will be held in November on the question of amending the state Constitution to legalize liquor-by-the-drink on a local option basis.

"We are proceeding with the utmost care, because we want only the best men available to spearhead the program," he said.

"We have not yet started a membership campaign, but hundreds of West Virginians have already rallied to our cause. The response is amazing," Jones said.

"People are telephoning and writing to members of our executive committee to ask what they can do to promote the cause of moderation and the economic growth of West Virginia," he said. "Although we have not yet embarked on a fund - raising drive, voluntary contributions from people who are anxious to help are financing our preliminary activities."

Executive - secretary Mike Rush said the program being planned will be "factual — there will be no fanaticism or half-truths — no blows below the belt, and above all, it will be free of emotionalism or fanaticism."

Court Review Is Asked By Gas Company

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Co. asked the West Virginia Supreme Court Tuesday to review a Kanawha County circuit court order upholding the right of 14 employes in the Keyser area to unemployment compensation benefits.

The 14 filed for the jobless pay for the July 29-Aug. 26 1960 period. Their request was sustained by a trial examiner, the Employment Security Department Board of Review, and the Kanawha County Circuit Court.

The circuit court said that while there was a labor dispute involving C&A and local 419 of the Utility Workers of America during the period involved there was no substantial curtailment of company activities to actually constitute a work stoppage under the law.

Supreme Court Affirms W. Va. Income Tax Plan

Formal Opinion Will Be Issued

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — The West Virginia Supreme Court unanimously ruled Tuesday that the state's personal income tax is constitutional. A formal opinion setting forth the reasons for the court's decision will be issued later.

The four paragraph announcement by Judge Leslie E. Given said that the tax "is constitutional, insofar as its constitutionality is questioned and considered in the instant proceeding."

The order set aside and reversed a Wood County Circuit Court decree of Feb. 21 which held the tax was unconstitutional on two grounds.

Circuit Judge Donald F. Black of Parkersburg had ruled that the tax enacted by the 1961 legislature was invalid because it incorporated numerous exemptions provided under federal law. He said this was contrary to a state constitution provision allowing only an exemption "on incomes below a minimum level to be fixed from time to time."

Judge Black also had held that the house of delegates journal had failed to show a "case of urgency" when that body speeded final passage of the tax act. The delegates suspended the constitutional rule requiring a bill to be read on three separate days.

Ned H. Tanner of Parkersburg had brought the test action to block his employer from withholding the income tax from his wages.

Had the supreme court upheld Judge Black, the state's financial status would have been disrupted and a special session of the legislature would have been required.

The state operating budget enacted by the recent 1962 session for the 1962-63 fiscal year beginning next July 1 depends upon the income tax for $15 million in revenue. The state tax is 6 per cent of the amount paid the federal government.

The youngsters have been buying U.S. savings stamps from their own earnings. Besides encouraging the youngsters in a patriotic endeavor, they are being urged to develop the habit of saving regularly.

Forestry Camp Official Talks At Lonaconing

Discusses Plans With Councilmen

LONACONING—The Mayor and Council of Lonaconing Monday night heard from David L. Curran, supervisor of the Maryland Boys Forestry Camps, who outlined the program and future plans of the camps and pledged cooperation with Lonaconing.

Mayor Harold Moyer also told Mr. Curran the town would cooperate with him. One of the camps is located in Garrett County west of Lonaconing.

In other action at the meeting, the council reversed the parking regulations on Douglas Avenue.

The town also reported Joseph McGregor, garbage collector, had been notified about several complaints of irregular garbage collection hours. Mr. McGregor reported in the future all collections will begin at 6 p. m.

Police reported at the meeting that several lights had been shot out with air rifles on Castle Hill. Parents were reminded the town has an ordinance against air rifles and anyone caught with them will be prosecuted.

The only other action included the approval of a building permit for J. Bradley Marshall who plans to enclose a porch at his property on Main Street.

Moderation Advocates Plan Drive

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— The executive committee of West Virginians for Moderation, which is spearheading the campaign for liquor by the drink, met here Monday and announced plans for a statewide organization to reach into each of the state's 2,750 precincts.

President Clem Jones, Huntington, said 13 regional directors will be appointed, along with county chairmen in each county. Jones said the organization hopes to complete selection of regional directors within the next few weeks.

A referendum will be held in November on the question of amending the state Constitution to legalize liquor-by-the-drink on a local option basis.

"We are proceeding with the utmost care, because we want only the best men available to spearhead the program," he said.

"We have not yet started a membership campaign, but hundreds of West Virginians have already rallied to our cause. The response is amazing," Jones said.

"People are telephoning and writing to members of our executive committee to ask what they can do to promote the cause of moderation and the economic growth of West Virginia," he said. "Although we have not yet embarked on a fund - raising drive, voluntary contributions from people who are anxious to help are financing our preliminary activities."

Executive - secretary Mike Rush said the program being planned will be "factual — there will be no fanaticism or half-truths — no blows below the belt, and above all, it will be free of emotionalism or fanaticism."

Democrats At Mt. Savage To Hold Rally

Democrats of Allegany County will hold a rally Friday night at Old Rail Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, in Mt. Savage.

The rally, which will begin at 8:15 p.m., will give members of the party a chance to meet the Democratic candidates who are seeking office.

Thomas Stephens and Colin Bowers, co-chairman of the rally, said each candidate will be given an opportunity to express his views, and there will be an question-and-answer period.

A delegation from the Jeffersonian Democratic Club of Frostburg is expected to attend the event, which will be one of several held throughout the county prior to the primary on May 15.

Some 38 Democrats are seeking office in nine contests.

They include six for the House of Delegates, one for State Senate, six for county commissioner, 18 for state central committee, two for sheriff, one for county treasurer, one for clerk of the court and three for Orphans Court.

Conservation Expanded

Three new cooperators were added by the Allegany County Soil Conservation District during March, according to the report of Martin H. Gordon, work unit conservationist for the U. S. Soil Conservation Service.

Mr. Gordon informed the District Board of Supervisors at its recent meeting in the office of County Agent Joseph M. Steger that the new cooperators are Earl H. Lepley, Mt. Savage, 48 acres; State Police Lt. W. Elwood O'Hara, Oldtown Road, 42 acres, and Howard Taylor, 103 acres on Oldtown Road.

During March, the basic conservation plan for the State Game Commission's land on Dan's Mountain was revised. An open ditch survey for 700 feet on the farm of Phillip Evans at Rawlings was undertaken last month.

There also were 46 follow-up contracts in the past month.

County Budget

budget, a $55,000 item is included for liquor licenses, which will more than take care of the $21,010 liquor board budget.

Other new items in the 1962-63 budget include $17,000 for LaVale Sanitary Commission and survey, $1,300 for the Zoning Board of Appeals, which was not created until last December; $500 for problems of the aging, $18,778 for the Upper Potomac Industrial Development Company and $25,000 for salary adjustments.

The two items eliminated, which had appeared in the 1961-62 budget ,were $15,032.76 for surplus food and $50,000 for salary increases. Although the surplus food budget was listed a year ago, none of the funds were needed. No overall salary increases are anticipated in the new fiscal year. However, there will be salary adjustments as new classifications are approved, hence the new salary adjustments items in the budget.

The Allegany Community College, which became a reality after the county commissioners approved its establishment last June, was not budgeted for funds a year ago. However, the commissioners approved the taking of $30,000 from contingent funds for its first year of operations.

For the new fiscal year, the college is budgeted for $73,197 in county funds but it is included in an item entitled other school projects and Allegany Community College. The other school projects call for $12,650, to provide paving improvements at Oldtown and Hill Street Elementary School. Last year there was a $12,930 item, which provided for the blacktopping of the Fort Hill High School parking lot and laying of a sdiewalk along the Westernport Elementary School property.

In addition to the county tax rate of $1.85, taxpayers will be required to pay a state real estate and personal property tax of 15 cents, the same as last year. As before, a five per cent discount is allowed on county taxes paid in June, a four per cent discount in July and a three per cent discount in August.

The latest wording of the Pledge to the American Flag was made in June, 1954, when Congress revised it to include the words "under God" to follow "nation."

Canadian Films Available At County Library

Three color films, designed for the sportsmen, will be available tomorrow through June 15 at the Allegany County Public Library branch on Washington Street.

Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian, said the three films are entitled, "Hunting the Foothills Flyway"—The fall shoot for grouse, ducks, partridge and Canada geese; "Panorame of a Province"—impressions of the Province of Saskatchewan: and "The Queen's Plate"—Canada's racing classic, run in the presence of the Queen.

Schools, scouts clubs or other organizations interested in borrowing the films are asked to contact Miss Walsh at the library.

Democrats At Mt. Savage To Hold Rally

The rally, which will begin at 8:15 p.m., will give members of the party a chance to meet the Democratic candidates who are seeking office.

Thomas Stephens and Colin Bowers, co-chairman of the rally, said each candidate will be given an opportunity to express his views, and there will be an question-and-answer period.

A delegation from the Jeffersonian Democratic Club of Frostburg is expected to attend the event, which will be one of several held throughout the county prior to the primary on May 15.

Some 38 Democrats are seeking office in nine contests.

They include six for the House of Delegates, one for State Senate, six for county commissioner, 18 for state central committee, two for sheriff, one for county treasurer, one for clerk of the court and three for Orphans Court.

Conservation Expanded

Three new cooperators were added by the Allegany County Soil Conservation District during March, according to the report of Martin H. Gordon, work unit conservationist for the U. S. Soil Conservation Service.

Mr. Gordon informed the District Board of Supervisors at its recent meeting in the office of County Agent Joseph M. Steger that the new cooperators are Earl H. Lepley, Mt. Savage, 48 acres; State Police Lt. W. Elwood O'Hara, Oldtown Road, 42 acres, and Howard Taylor, 103 acres on Oldtown Road.

During March, the basic conservation plan for the State Game Commission's land on Dan's Mountain was revised. An open ditch survey for 700 feet on the farm of Phillip Evans at Rawlings was undertaken last month.

There also were 46 follow-up contracts in the past month.

budget, a $55,000 item is included for liquor licenses, which will more than take care of the $21,010 liquor board budget.

Other new items in the 1962-63 budget include $17,000 for LaVale Sanitary Commission and survey, $1,300 for the Zoning Board of Appeals, which was not created until last December; $500 for problems of the aging, $18,778 for the Upper Potomac Industrial Development Company and $25,000 for salary adjustments.

The two items eliminated, which had appeared in the 1961-62 budget ,were $15,032.76 for surplus food and $50,000 for salary increases. Although the surplus food budget was listed a year ago, none of the funds were needed. No overall salary increases are anticipated in the new fiscal year. However, there will be salary adjustments as new classifications are approved, hence the new salary adjustments items in the budget.

The Allegany Community College, which became a reality after the county commissioners approved its establishment last June, was not budgeted for funds a year ago. However, the commissioners approved the taking of $30,000 from contingent funds for its first year of operations.

For the new fiscal year, the college is budgeted for $73,197 in county funds but it is included in an item entitled other school projects and Allegany Community College. The other school projects call for $12,650, to provide paving improvements at Oldtown and Hill Street Elementary School. Last year there was a $12,980 item, which provided for the blacktopping of the Fort Hill High School parking lot and laying of a sdiewalk along the Westernport Elementary School property.

In addition to the county tax rate of $1.85, taxpayers will be required to pay a state real estate and personal property tax of 15 cents, the same as last year. As before, a five per cent discount is allowed on county taxes paid in June, a four per cent discount in July and a three per cent discount in August.

The latest wording of the Pledge to the American Flag was made in June, 1954, when Congress revised it to include the words "under God" to follow "nation."

Canadian Films Available At County Library

Three color films, designed for the sportsmen, will be available tomorrow through June 15 at the Allegany County Public Library branch on Washington Street.

Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian, said the three films are entitled, "Hunting the Foothills Flyway"—The fall shoot for grouse, ducks, partridge and Canada geese; "Panorame of a Province"—impressions of the Province of Saskatchewan: and "The Queen's Plate"—Canada's racing classic, run in the presence of the Queen.

Schools, scouts clubs or other organizations interested in borrowing the films are asked to contact Miss Walsh at the library.

Pity The Oppressed, Starving American

Two interesting, if minute, insights into Communist propaganda have turned up in the mail in the past few days. One was a newspaper account of the type of thing Radio Peiping has been saying about us, with our "capitalist ruling circles," our Negroes, who, "treated mercilessly, often beaten, starve unless they are fortunate enough to find degrading jobs," and how all this is aided and abetted by the "yellow dog imperialist press" in the service of the "Western fascist warmongers." Peiping also points to the 126,000 mentally retarded children born in the U.S. each year—a true and tragic statistic, but the Chinese don't mention that this is but 3 per cent of the 4.2 million children born each year in this country.

The other example was a 14-page summary of the remarks of Premier Khrushchev to the plenary meeting of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union on March 5, in which Mr. Khrushchev made some penetrating observations about the disappointing performance of agriculture in the U.S.S.R. in relation to expectations, and in which he outlined some new approaches. The summary was mailed out by the Soviet Embassy in Washington.

More or less in passing, the Soviet Premier said, "While laying bare the antagonisms in the capitalist mode of production in agriculture, we must at the same time see the achievements that have been gained in science and practical agriculture in so developed a country as the United States of America. It is necessary to make a closer study of agricultural production in the United States and other countries with a high standard of organization of the economy, and introduce on our collective and state farms the achievements of science and practical agriculture abroad."

And what were those "antagonisms" Mr. Khrushchev was talking about? In the Embassy's paraphrase of the Premier's speech "The United States has to reduce the areas under some crops because it has a surplus of agricultural products. But this overproduction exists not because there is nobody to consume these products in America. It has millions of unemployed who do not eat enough and others who simply starve."

Well, his speech was for domestic consumption, where exaggerations might be considered appropriate. But the Embassy apparently is distributing the summary to newspapers all over the United States. Could it be that the Embassy's staff actually believes that there are people dropping dead of starvation every day, all over America? We wonder.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Big And Many Small Issues

The other day, I got into a noisy argument with a man over the question of separation of church and state, he trying to convince me that my views were wrong; I doing the same to him.

After a while, I discovered that the reason each failed to communicate with the other was that our fanaticism was different and that therefore we really used different vocabularies in the same language. To him, it seemed important that no tax money should be used to subsidize a religious sect; to me, it seemed important that in the struggle against Marxism, we use whatever means is available to us to preserve our civilization.

Were we only mud and clay, we never could, in the short period of 300 years, have conquered a continent and fashioned it into the most powerful nation on Earth. We had a splendid start. We inherited from the Western Europeans, principally the British and the German immigrants to this country, the Greco-Judaic-Christian cultures overlaid by the great legal development in human rights called common law.

To this amalgam must be added the curious fact that most of the immigrants to this nation during the first century of its existence before the Revolution were religious sectarians who left their homelands not to find fortunes but to worship God according to their faith and conscience. The few exceptions to this rule include the involuntary immigrants such as the felons who were exiled and the maids who were imported to be wives. Thus religion played an extraordinary role in the forming of the American mind. The large number of religious sects, more than 250, is indicative not of confusion but rather of earnestness.

Statistically, throughout American history, the majority of the people were Protestants, although from the very beginning in some places there were also Roman Catholics and Jews. The atheist was regarded as outside the pale of our civilization until very recent times. The deist, that is the person who believed in God but would not be sectarian, appeared about the time of the Revolution in such personalities as Thomas Jefferson and Benjamin Franklin.

The First Amendment to the Constitution says that no church establishment should be permitted. To understand the word "establishment," it is necessary to go back to the 18th Century for a definition. Establishment then meant a government-subsidized and controlled church. Prior to the 16th Century, the Roman Catholic Church was dominant throughout Western Europe and tolerated no deviation. After the clerical and religious revolutions of the 16th Century, national churches were established, as, for instance, the Anglican Church, the Lutheran Church, the Presbyterian Church, etc. These were state-supported churches.

The first half of the 20th Century developed a tendency toward secularism and agnosticism. Many religious concepts did not seem to fit the age. The struggle between science and faith discouraged intellectuals from religious participation and through them went down to the masses of the people.

But by the middle of the 20th Century, many thinking persons began to realize that moral leadership, character building, the capacity to resist falsehood, the maintenance of the family were essential to this country if it was to survive the universal onslaught of unabated materialism in the struggle for power which Soviet Russia instituted. Religion became "interesting." Churches became more active.

The question arose in the minds of some non-Catholics as to the relationship of school, of taxes, of tax-free money and the churches. Not all of them took the position that all religious teaching should be abandoned, but they wanted it kept out of the school system.

That is the reason for the agitation over the separation of Church and State.

Senate Antitrust Group Debates Outer Space Satellite 'Giveaway'

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Without any fanfare, one of the most important give-aways of modern times is being debated in the Senate Antitrust Committee. It's the plan to give the giant American Telephone and Telegraph Company, plus some kindred communications corporations, control of all outer-space television, telephone and radio.

The opportunities of communicating with the rest of the world by bouncing radio and TV beams off a satellite in outer space are almost unlimited. They are so amazing that the United States can be showing TV programs in any part of Africa or Siberia, or telephoning to anyone in any country at no great cost.

However, Chairman Newton Minow, who once claimed television was a "wasteland," now proposes handing this vast communications opportunity largely to the biggest corporation in the USA with a long record of antitrust suits. The Kennedy Administration goes along with Minow in part, though wanting to sell some stock in the communications satellite to the public.

The two toughest trust-busters in the Senate, however—Estes Kefauver of Tennessee and Wayne Morse of Oregon—vigorously disagree. And in hearings before the Antitrust Committee they raked space agency officials with some withering cross-examination.

"This has been paid for by the taxpayers, has it not?" asked the slow-speaking Senator from Tennessee.

"That is correct, sir," answered Dr. E. C. Welsh, executive secretary of the Space Council.

Senator Kefeauver: "I have heard up to $25 billion considering all space programs."

Dr. Welsh: "That is extended into the future, that particular figure, but it has been large."

Senator Kefauver: "Anyway, it has cost the general taxpayers a tremendous amount, and, with the opportunity of buying shares of stock at $1,000 or $100, this will give them a chance to get some of their money back.

"But, you know, as a practical person," continued Kefauver, "that the number of people who are going to buy shares will be a small, small percentage of the taxpayers who have contributed to this research and development costing tens of billions of dollars, do you not, Dr. Welsh?"

Welsh: "Oh, yes. There will be a difference in distribution of the benefits. I am quite certain of that."

Kefauver then developed the fact that if this communications satellite pays off as expected, it might be immensely profitable to the U. S. government and could help reduce the national debt.

"Let us say that in 10 years this satellite makes $20,000,000,000," suggested Kefauver. "That would be money belonging to the government which would reduce the national debt and thereby help all the taxpayers, would it not, sir?"

"It might very well be," replied Welsh.

"You might not have to raise taxes so much," pursued the Senator from Tennessee, "and in that way benefit all the taxpayers rather than those who merely had the wisdom to buy shares in the corporation."

Sen. Ralph Yarborough of Texas also had some ideas along this line.

"If this space communication is given away to a private carrier," he said, "it will be the first government-created, private monopoly created by the United States government in United States history.

"It is my belief that all American taxpayers who have contributed so much already should receive the benefits of their investment automatically and directly."

Senator Morse of Oregon was even more emphatic. He practically served an ultimatum on President Kennedy that he would talk the space giveaway to death if Kennedy persisted in favoring the big communications companies.

Before he testified, however, there was some interesting byplay between More and Republican Sen. Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin who, in the past, has opposed government giveaways but in recent months has seemed vague and indifferent.

Kefauver, welcoming Morse as a witness, noted Wiley's vagueness and said: "I am sure Senator Wiley, who is here, joins in welcoming you."

"What about Senator Wiley?" asked Wiley, pricking up his ears.

"I say I am sure that you join in expressing a hearty welcome to our colleague from Oregon," Kefauver repeated.

"I always do that," responded Wiley, "even when he is wrong I like to see him."

Senator Morse then gave this ultimatum to Kennedy:

"I say to Mr. President from this witness stand: 'You will make a great mistake if you try to rush this through Congress at this session because you, too, Mr. President, have an obligation to make perfectly clear to the people of this country all of the implications and potential consequences of this legislation."

JFK's New Style Of Quiet Firmness Abroad

By Joseph Alsop

EN ROUTE TO HONG KONG These words are written in the air over the Pacific, at the beginning of the third long voyage of inquiry this reporter has made since President Kennedy took office. At each departure, the prospects have seemed different, but never so different as at this time.

What makes the prospects look different — and more hopeful — this time? The answer is hard to put in so many words. Maybe the best way to put it is to say that the Kennedy administration seems to have evolved a new American style for doing the nation's business overseas.

Evolving the new style has taken some time, which is understandable. It is so easy to forget, but always needful to remember, that the formation of a new American government only begins with the formation of the cabinet.

In a new British government, for instance, every leading personage will have known and judged every other leading personage during years spent together on the floor of the House of Commons. But in a new American government, it is often the case — and was the case with the Kennedy administration—that the incoming President, Secretary of State, and Secretary of Defense begin their fateful collaboration on the basis of a couple of hours' acquaintance with each other.

In such circumstances, the shakedown period is bound to be long and likely to be painful. It was painful in this instance. The impulsive adventure in Cuba was only one side of the medal. The other and probably more damaging side was the impulsive talk about Laos, followed by the backdown there.

At the beginning of this reporter's first Kennedy-era journey, the Laotian and Cuban episodes both seemed unimaginable. At the beginning of the second journey, it was not easy to forget James Reston's sharp but contemporaneously justified remark about the new government's talking like Churchill and acting like Neville Chamberlain. But now it is altogether different again, for concrete reasons noticeable in the last few months.

The joke (and the secret of the new style) is that these concrete reasons for a reassessment have not been all that noticeable. They were very big political developments, by any standard; but when they first emerged into public view, they hardly made the headlines.

Consider, for instance, the two successive rounds of Soviet pressure on the air corridors leading to Berlin. First the Soviets used fighter planes to try to force Western aircraft out of the corridors, on one occasion buzzing a U.S. military transport at the range of six feet.

In the second round, interference flights and chaff-dropping were resorted to. In both rounds, some American officials — notably Gen. Lucius D. Clay — understandably advocated the kind of extreme counter-measures that might have caused a dramatic public confrontation and a world-grippinng crisis.

Counter-measures were indeed taken, but in a very quiet, downright inconspicuous way. No more was done than the minimum that the challenge demanded. That minimum was done without fanfare, so that very few persons were even dimly aware of the grave alarm that was briefly felt by the highest policymakers. And this quiet minimum has worked so well that throughout the period of Soviet pressure on the air corridors, air traffic to Berlin has greatly increased.

In South Vietnam, this reporter's main Asian destination, the same novel pattern once again appears. Here the action taken was even more significant. For it must be understood that the great intensification of American effort in South Vietnam, and the commitment of American "training troops" to combat there, really constitute an American commitment to win this chancy war at all costs.

But once again, there was no fanfare, there were no dramatics. What needed to be done was done as quietly as possible. Consequently, both our allies and our enemies are only now beginning to wake up to the real nature of the U. S. commitment in South Vietnam.

Doing big things abroad with the least possible fuss is a new way of acting for the U.S. It is a new style, quite different from the styles of the past.

The new style can have one grave drawback. If there is no fuss, the country may not be aroused, and may finally reject the new commitment when it understands its nature. But the South Vietnamese case suggests that this is not an important danger. Meanwhile, doing big things with the least possible fuss also has the immense advantage of minimizing the probable enemy reaction. Thus the risks are greatly reduced.

In truth, if we can maintain this new style of quiet, prudent firmness, we shall be very lucky.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

TIME ON HIS HANDS—Among Idaho Sen. Frank Church's constituents is a high school civics student with a sense of humor. The young lady wrote Church a letter asking him to outline a typical day of a senator to complete a class assignment.

Church complied with a document of exhaustive detail, including an early breakfast with the secretary of the Air Force, through a 1 p. m. appointment at the White House and a crowded afternoon on Capitol Hill.

He completed the day's log with the following:

"Eight o'clock, dinner with patient wife; 8:30, played with two sons before tucking them into bed; 9:30, began reading of Congressional Record, government reports, letters and newspapers from Idaho; 11:00 to 11:15, watched TV newscast; 11:15 to 11:20, raided ice box for cold milk and cake. By midnight, I was in bed . . . and I had no need to count sheep."

The schoolgirl sent him a nice "thank you" in the next mail, but couldn't resit the following gleeful footnote:

"What I really meant to ask was, what do you do in your spare time?"

NO HAT SALE — Rep. Abner W. Sibal, of Connecticut, comes from a hat producing district, and, of course, he's been scratching his head trying to find ways to increase the sale of hats. He hit upon what he thought was a bright idea, introduction of a bill to permit the 17 women in the House of Representatives to wear hats on the floor.

Sibal thought he'd gain a little advance for his proposal and wrote the ladies asking their views of his bill. Rep. Edith Green, an Oregon Democrat, gave it to her Republican colleague straight. She replied: "I do not want to high-hat your proposal, so, as you requested, I do have some frank advice . . .

"There are so few lady members of the House, that the hat manufacturing industry would receive a boost if your resolution were addressed to the male members of the House, who far outnumber us. If the male members were permitted to wear hats, it would help concerns in your congressional district.

"And as I gaze about me on the House floor these afternoons, there are more of them who need hats to keep their little heads warm." Sibal has decided not to press for enactment of his bill.

TOKYO, Japan—This country is always a serious subject. I can explain it, but I can't understand it. Tokyo, for example, is the largest city in the world. It is the dullest by day and the most exciting by night. One out of every 10 Japanese lives in the capital. The nation is made up of four big islands and 3,000 small ones. It sits like the skeleton of a sea horse on the western edge of the Pacific Ocean.

The politest people in the world live here. The bowing when two families meet in the lobby of the Imperial Hotel looks like an epidemic of cramps. Yet, on the streets of the city, the drivers kill each other in larger numbers than anywhere else on earth. Many people wear gauze masks over their mouths so that others will not catch their cold.

Japan is not yet westernized, but Tokyo is. It looks like an almond-eyed Philadelphia on Monday morning. There are huge blocks of buildings stretching for miles; cars make all sorts of wild turns at high speed while pedestrians — some in kimonos and wooden clogs—execute a sort of native conga line while trying to remain alive. Most of the street signs are in Japanese and English—an old MacArthur scar.

One little beanery had a sign outside: Hotta Doggu, in case any Japanese happened to be in a Coney Island mood. An electrical company advertises "Hotta Kitchens." Rich women wear flowered silk komonos with obis in the back and, over them, mink stoles. Confusing? A yen here is money. There are 360 yen to the dollar.

A man who earns $150 a month can support a family. Japan is mountainous and only 15 per cent of the land is arable. The people live on fish, vegetables and stewed seaweed. I'm beginning to like it, which shows how long I've been away from home.

Kelly and I have a driver. His name is Nakada. He is a sensible man, I am sure. He has four young daughters and a son. He says he's 49 years old, although he looks to me as though he was too old for the Russo-Japanese war of 1904. In any case, he drives slowly. Among all the maniacs in Tokyo, this man drives a hearse. He has only one weakness. He laughs all the time. When he laughs, he throws his head back and he can't see the road.

We can. This is deadly. We are no longer nervous; just numb. He drove us down to Yokohama and over to Kamakura. Kelly and I wanted to see the Great Buddha. We brought the Sullivans with us, and Jack was so scared watching Nakada that he got his foot caught in a hanking strap.

For Sullivan, this is not easy. Nakada laughs hysterically at all of the following: "Hello, Nakadasan." "What road is this?" "Where can we eat?" Once, we asked him to take us to a rest room, but we won't do that anymore. It turned out to be coeducational.

We saw Buddha. You've seen this one in the movies. It sits in bronze, with eyes half closed, and has seed pearls all over the head. It is outdoors, is 42 feet 6 inches tall sitting; and weighs 103 tons. For a few extra yen, the tourist can walk up inside Buddha to the shoulders.

All Japanese schools wear blue uniforms and caps. They submit to harsher discipline and a tougher curriculum than anywhere in the U. S. A priest told me that the Jesuit University in Tokyo, held in high esteem anywhere else, is rated low in Japan. The people are the most industrious and, ironically, among the best friends America has.

In spite of the bitter defeat of 16 years ago, the Japanese take to themselves the better aspects of American life, and use our dress, our modes of daily life, our organizational and economic charts and, sadly, our Rock and Roll, our pinball machines, and our mania for television.

The Tokyo radio stations use very little Japanese music. "That corn?" a young Japanese said to me. "I'd go nuts." Almost all radio music is American jazz. Personally, I'm about ready for the samisen.

The two nations which have made the greatest postwar strides were both losers: Germany and Japan. The Japanese have averaged 7.8 per cent economic expansion each year, and, for two recent years, went above 17 per cent. The Yawata Steel Works, of which Mr. Tadayoshi Yamada is executive manager of the foreign division, sells steel all over the world.

I was surprised to find that Yawata steel rods are sold in California. Mr. Yamada explained that the American west coast steel firms make very few steel rods so, without competing with American steel, Japan finds it easy to sell what we haven't got.

"I knew all along," said Jack Sullivan, "that the Japanese were clean people. Very clean. But I was kind of surprised when I found out that, when they're in New York, they're afraid to drink the water."

X-Ray One Of Best Aids In Cancer Detection

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Dear Dr. Van Dellen: "Is X-ray the only method of detecting cancer?" writes Mrs. L. No, but it is one of the best ways to uncover cancers that cannot be seen or felt. In addition, X-ray provides an excellent screening device for the early detection of internal cancers.

When certain shadows are noted in the chest X-ray, the physician may suspect a malignancy but other tests are needed for confirmation. The sputum is sent to the laboratory to determine whether it contains cancer cells. If this test is negative, a bronchoscopic examination is recommended, provided the lesion is located in an area where it can be seen.

The tube is passed through the mouth and into the lung. A small piece of the tumor is removed and sent to the laboratory where it is examined for cancer cells (biopsy). In other instances, a biopsy of neck gland material is done because lung cancers often spread in this direction.

If all the tests are negative and the physician still thinks the lung lesion is malignant, he may recommend an exploratory operation. This is worthwhile because there is no surer way to diagnose cancer than to see it, feel it, remove it, and have it examined by a pathologist.

External cancers can be seen whereas those just under the skin or in the superficial tissues can be felt. This is true also of breast cancer. These lesions can be diagnosed by biopsy or by examination of the tissues after removal. Laboratory tests of the secretions (cytology) are done frequently to detect cancers of the cervix or uterus. Many physicians do these tests routinely and it is surprising how often an early malignancy of the uterus is detected by the Pap test in a woman who had no symptoms.

Radioactive isotopes and sound waves also are used in diagnosing certain cancers. The physician also has available many devices and chemical solutions such as barium, which is employed in conjunction with X-rays, when examining the gastrointestinal tract. But we lack a single easy procedure, such as a blood test, possibly because cancers are not all the same.

PROLONGED TREATMENT

R. W. writes: Three months ago I started treatment with a doctor who says I have fluctuating high blood pressure and a high cholesterol count. I take two kinds of medicine and have to see him every two weeks. I'm on a low salt, low cholesterol diet and have lost 15 pounds. My blood pressure has been normal since two weeks after I started with him but he tells me to continue. Must this go on forever?

REPLY

Why not ask for a consultation, since it is obvious you feel you are being overtreated.

A NEW WRINKLE

B. F. writes: Will spreading mayonnaise over the face and neck counteract wrinkles?

REPLY

No, and it won't take the wrinkles out of prunes, lettuce, or anything else in salads or sandwiches.

INADEQUATE SALT

A. B. writes: What are the symptoms of too little salt in the diet?

REPLY

TOMORROW: Reducing—a major project.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

An aircraft factory VIP, enlarging upon the virtue of initiative to the four o'clock shift, told of the day in World War II when General MacArthur summoned one of his Army engineers and asked, "How long will it take to throw a bridge across this stream?" "Three days," was the answer. "Okay," snapped MacArthur. "Have your draftsmen make blueprints immediately." Three days later the General asked if the bridge was under way. "It's finished," smiled the engineer. "You can send your troops across it this minute if you don't wait for those damn blueprints. They aren't started yet."

Every year Mr. and Mrs. Blevins had the pastor, his wife, and their son over for New Year's Day dinner. When their son was fifteen, he failed to appear with the pastor and his wife. "You must excuse our son Bill," explained the pastor to Mr. Blevins. "Now that he's grown up enough so we can stand him, he can't stand us!"

"Recession in Texas?" boomed an indignant San Antonian. "We don't have recessions in this state, son. Though I will admit that right now our boom is worse than it's been in ten years."

There are now more than a million telephone booths in the U. S., according to a news story. Makes it all the more puzzling to us older folks why college kids think it's such a great idea to see how many can crowd into a single one.

Pity The Oppressed, Starving American

Two interesting, if minute, insights into Communist propaganda have turned up in the mail in the past few days. One was a newspaper account of the type of thing Radio Peiping has been saying about us, with our "capitalist ruling circles," our Negroes, who, "treated mercilessly, often beaten, starve unless they are fortunate enough to find degrading jobs," and how all this is aided and abetted by the "yellow dog imperialist press" in the service of the "Western fascist warmongers." Peiping also points to the 126,000 mentally retarded children born in the U.S. each year—a true and tragic statistic, but the Chinese don't mention that this is but 3 per cent of the 4.2 million children born each year in this country.

The other example was a 14-page summary of the remarks of Premier Khrushchev to the plenary meeting of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union on March 5, in which Mr. Khrushchev made some penetrating observations about the disappointing performance of agriculture in the U.S.S.R. in relation to expectations, and in which he outlined some new approaches. The summary was mailed out by the Soviet Embassy in Washington.

More or less in passing, the Soviet Premier said, "While laying bare the antagonisms in the capitalist mode of production in agriculture, we must at the same time see the achievements that have been gained in science and practical agriculture in so developed a country as the United States of America. It is necessary to make a closer study of agricultural production in the United States and other countries with a high standard of organization of the economy, and introduce on our collective and state farms the achievements of science and practical agriculture abroad."

And what were those "antagonisms" Mr. Khrushchev was talking about? In the Embassy's paraphrase of the Premier's speech "The United States has to reduce the areas under some crops because it has a surplus of agricultural products. But this overproduction exists not because there is nobody to consume these products in America. It has millions of unemployed who do not eat enough and others who simply starve."

Well, his speech was for domestic consumption, where exaggerations might be considered appropriate. But the Embassy apparently is distributing the summary to newspapers all over the United States. Could it be that the Embassy's staff actually believes that there are people dropping dead of starvation every day, all over America? We wonder.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Big And Many Small Issues

The other day, I got into a noisy argument with a man over the question of separation of church and state, he trying to convince me that my views were wrong; I doing the same to him.

After a while, I discovered that the reason each failed to communicate with the other was that our fanaticism was different and that therefore we really used different vocabularies in the same language. To him, it seemed important that no tax money should be used to subsidize a religious sect; to me, it seemed important that in the struggle against Marxism, we use whatever means is available to us to preserve our civilization.

Were we only mud and clay, we never could, in the short period of 300 years, have conquered a continent and fashioned it into the most powerful nation on Earth. We had a splendid start. We inherited from the Western Europeans, principally the British and the German immigrants to this country, the Greco-Judaic-Christian cultures overlaid by the great legal development in human rights called common law.

To this amalgam must be added the curious fact that most of the immigrants to this nation during the first century of its existence before the Revolution were religious sectarians who left their homelands not to find fortunes but to worship God according to their faith and conscience. The few exceptions to this rule include the involuntary immigrants such as the felons who were exiled and the maids who were imported to be wives. Thus religion played an extraordinary role in the forming of the American mind. The large number of religious sects, more than 250, is indicative not of confusion but rather of earnestness.

Statistically, throughout American history, the majority of the people were Protestants, although from the very beginning in some places there were also Roman Catholics and Jews. The atheist was regarded as outside the pale of our civilization until very recent times. The deist, that is the person who believed in God but would not be sectarian, appeared about the time of the Revolution in such personalities as Thomas Jefferson and Benjamin Franklin.

The First Amendment to the Constitution says that no church establishment should be permitted. To understand the word "establishment," it is necessary to go back to the 18th Century for a definition. Establishment then meant a government-subsidized and controlled church. Prior to the 16th Century, the Roman Catholic Church was dominant throughout Western Europe and tolerated no deviation. After the clerical and religious revolutions of the 16th Century, national churches were established, as, for instance, the Anglican Church, the Lutheran Church, the Presbyterian Church, etc. These were state-supported churches.

The first half of the 20th Century developed a tendency toward secularism and agnosticism. Many religious concepts did not seem to fit the age. The struggle between science and faith discouraged intellectuals from religious participation and through them went down to the masses of the people.

But by the middle of the 20th Century, many thinking persons began to realize that moral leadership, character building, the capacity to resist falsehood, the maintenance of the family were essential to this country if it was to survive the universal onslaught of unabated materialism in the struggle for power which Soviet Russia instituted. Religion became "interesting." Churches became more active.

The question arose in the minds of some non-Catholics as to the relationship of school, of taxes, of tax-free money and the churches. Not all of them took the position that all religious teaching should be abandoned, but they wanted it kept out of the school system.

That is the reason for the agitation over the separation of Church and State.

Senate Antitrust Group Debates Outer Space Satellite 'Giveaway'

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Without any fanfare, one of the most important give-aways of modern times is being debated in the Senate Antitrust Committee. It's the plan to give the giant American Telephone and Telegraph Company, plus some kindred communications corporations, control of all outer-space television, telephone and radio.

The opportunities of communicating with the rest of the world by bouncing radio and TV beams off a satellite in outer space are almost unlimited. They are so amazing that the United States can be showing TV programs in any part of Africa or Siberia, or telephoning to anyone in any country at no great cost.

However, Chairman Newton Minow, who once claimed television was a "wasteland," now proposes handing this vast communications opportunity largely to the biggest corporation in the USA with a long record of antitrust suits. The Kennedy Administration goes along with Minow in part, though wanting to sell some stock in the communications satellite to the public.

The two toughest trust-busters in the Senate, however—Estes Kefauver of Tennessee and Wayne Morse of Oregon—vigorously disagree. And in hearings before the Antitrust Committee they raked space agency officials with some withering cross-examination.

"This has been paid for by the taxpayers, has it not?" asked the slow-speaking Senator from Tennessee.

"That is correct, sir," answered Dr. E. C. Welsh, executive secretary of the Space Council.

Senator Kefeauver: "I have heard up to $25 billion considering all space programs."

Dr. Welsh: "That is extended into the future, that particular figure, but it has been large."

Senator Kefauver: "Anyway, it has cost the general taxpayers a tremendous amount, and, with the opportunity of buying shares of stock at $1,000 or $100, this will give them a chance to get some of their money back.

"But, you know, as a practical person," continued Kefauver, "that the number of people who are going to buy shares will be a small, small percentage of the taxpayers who have contributed to this research and development costing tens of billions of dollars, do you not, Dr. Welsh?"

Welsh: "Oh, yes. There will be a difference in distribution of the benefits. I am quite certain of that."

Kefauver then developed the fact that if this communications satellite pays off as expected, it might be immensely profitable to the U. S. government and could help reduce the national debt.

"Let us say that in 10 years this satellite makes $20,000,000,000," suggested Kefauver. "That would be money belonging to the government which would reduce the national debt and thereby help all the taxpayers, would it not, sir?"

"It might very well be," replied Welsh.

"You might not have to raise taxes so much," pursued the Senator from Tennessee, "and in that way benefit all the taxpayers rather than those who merely had the wisdom to buy shares in the corporation."

Sen. Ralph Yarborough of Texas also had some ideas along this line.

"If this space communication is given away to a private carrier," he said, "it will be the first government-created, private monopoly created by the United States government in United States history.

"It is my belief that all American taxpayers who have contributed so much already should receive the benefits of their investment automatically and directly."

Senator Morse of Oregon was even more emphatic. He practically served an ultimatum on President Kennedy that he would talk the space giveaway to death if Kennedy persisted in favoring the big communications companies.

Before he testified, however, there was some interesting byplay between More and Republican Sen. Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin who, in the past, has opposed government giveaways but in recent months has seemed vague and indifferent.

Kefauver, welcoming Morse as a witness, noted Wiley's vagueness and said: "I am sure Senator Wiley, who is here, joins in welcoming you."

"What about Senator Wiley?" asked Wiley, pricking up his ears.

"I say I am sure that you join in expressing a hearty welcome to our colleague from Oregon," Kefauver repeated.

"I always do that," responded Wiley, "even when he is wrong I like to see him."

Senator Morse then gave this ultimatum to Kennedy:

"I say to Mr. President from this witness stand: 'You will make a great mistake if you try to rush this through Congress at this session because you, too, Mr. President, have an obligation to make perfectly clear to the people of this country all of the implications and potential consequences of this legislation."

JFK's New Style Of Quiet Firmness Abroad

By Joseph Alsop

EN ROUTE TO HONG KONG

These words are written in the air over the Pacific, at the beginning of the third long voyage of inquiry this reporter has made since President Kennedy took office. At each departure, the prospects have seemed different, but never so different as at this time.

What makes the prospects look different — and more hopeful — this time? The answer is hard to put in so many words. Maybe the best way to put it is to say that the Kennedy administration seems to have evolved a new American style for doing the nation's business overseas.

Evolving the new style has taken some time, which is understandable. It is so easy to forget, but always needful to remember, that the formation of a new American government only begins with the formation of the cabinet.

In a new British government, for instance, every leading personage will have known and judged every other leading personage during years spent together on the floor of the House of Commons. But in a new American government, it is often the case — and was the case with the Kennedy administration—that the incoming President, Secretary of State, and Secretary of Defense begin their fateful collaboration on the basis of a couple of hours' acquaintance with each other.

In such circumstances, the shakedown period is bound to be long and likely to be painful. It was painful in this instance. The impulsive adventure in Cuba was only one side of the medal. The other and probably more damaging side was the impulsive talk about Laos, followed by the backdown there.

At the beginning of this reporter's first Kennedy-era journey, the Laotian and Cuban episodes both seemed unimaginable. At the beginning of the second journey, it was not easy to forget James Reston's sharp but contemporaneously justified remark about the new government's talking like Churchill and acting like Neville Chamberlain. But now it is altogether different again, for concrete reasons noticeable in the last few months.

The joke (and the secret of the new style) is that these concrete reasons for a reassessment have not been all that noticeable. They were very big political developments, by any standard; but when they first emerged into public view, they hardly made the headlines.

Consider, for instance, the two successive rounds of Soviet pressure on the air corridors leading to Berlin. First the Soviets used fighter planes to try to force Western aircraft out of the corridors, on one occasion buzzing a U.S. military transport at the range of six feet.

In the second round, interference flights and chaff-dropping were resorted to. In both rounds, some American officials — notably Gen. Lucius D. Clay — understandably advocated the kind of extreme counter-measures that might have caused a dramatic public confrontation and a world-grippinng crisis.

Counter-measures were indeed taken, but in a very quiet, downright inconspicuous way. No more was done than the minimum that the challenge demanded. That minimum was done without fanfare, so that very few persons were even dimly aware of the grave alarm that was briefly felt by the highest policymakers. And this quiet minimum has worked so well that throughout the period of Soviet pressure on the air corridors, air traffic to Berlin has greatly increased.

In South Vietnam, this reporter's main Asian destination, the same novel pattern once again appears. Here the action taken was even more significant. For it must be understood that the great intensification of American effort in South Vietnam, and the commitment of American "training troops" to combat there, really constitute an American commitment to win this chancy war at all costs.

But once again, there was no fanfare, there were no dramatics. What needed to be done was done as quietly as possible. Consequently, both our allies and our enemies are only now beginning to wake up to the real nature of the U. S. commitment in South Vietnam.

Doing big things abroad with the least possible fuss is a new way of acting for the U.S. It is a new style, quite different from the styles of the past.

The new style can have one grave drawback. If there is no fuss, the country may not be aroused, and may finally reject the new commitment when it understands its nature. But the South Vietnamese case suggests that this is not an important danger. Meanwhile, doing big things with the least possible fuss also has the immense advantage of minimizing the probable enemy reaction. Thus the risks are greatly reduced.

In truth, if we can maintain this new style of quiet, prudent firmness, we shall be very lucky.

TIME ON HIS HANDS—Among Idaho Sen. Frank Church's constituents is a high school civics student with a sense of humor. The young lady wrote Church a letter asking him to outline a typical day of a senator to complete a class assignment.

Church complied with a document of exhaustive detail, including an early breakfast with the secretary of the Air Force, through a 1 p. m. appointment at the White House and a crowded afternoon on Capitol Hill.

He completed the day's log with the following:

"Eight o'clock, dinner with patient wife; 8:30, played with two sons before tucking them into bed; 9:30, began reading of Congressional Record, government reports, letters and newspapers from Idaho; 11:00 to 11:15, watched TV newscast; 11:15 to 11:20, raided ice box for cold milk and cake. X-Ray One Of Best Aids In Cancer Detection

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Dear Dr. Van Dellen: "Is X-ray the only method of detecting cancer?" writes Mrs. L. No, but it is one of the best ways to uncover cancers that cannot be seen or felt. In addition, X-ray provides an excellent screening device for the early detection of internal cancers.

When certain shadows are noted in the chest X-ray, the physician may suspect a malignancy but other tests are needed for confirmation. The sputum is sent to the laboratory to determine whether it contains cancer cells. If this test is negative, a bronchoscopic examination is recommended, provided the lesion is located in an area where it can be seen.

The tube is passed through the mouth and into the lung. A small piece of the tumor is removed and sent to the laboratory where it is examined for cancer cells (biopsy). In other instances, a biopsy of neck gland material is done because lung cancers often spread in this direction.

If all the tests are negative and the physician still thinks the lung lesion is malignant, he may recommend an exploratory operation. This is worthwhile because there is no surer way to diagnose cancer than to see it, feel it, remove it, and have it examined by a pathologist.

External cancers can be seen whereas those just under the skin or in the superficial tissues can be felt. This is true also of breast cancer. These lesions can be diagnosed by biopsy or by examination of the tissues after removal. Laboratory tests of the secretions (cytology) are done frequently to detect cancers of the cervix or uterus. Many physicians do these tests routinely and it is surprising how often an early malignancy of the uterus is detected by the Pap test in a woman who had no symptoms.

Radioactive isotopes and sound waves also are used in diagnosing certain cancers. The physician also has available many devices and chemical solutions such as barium, which is employed in conjunction with X-rays, when examining the gastrointestinal tract. But we lack a single easy procedure, such as a blood test, possibly because cancers are not all the same.

PROLONGED TREATMENT

R. W. writes: Three months ago I started treatment with a doctor who says I have fluctuating high blood pressure and a high cholesterol count. I take two kinds of medicine and have to see him every two weeks. I'm on a low salt, low cholesterol diet and have lost 15 pounds. My blood pressure has been normal since two weeks after I started with him but he tells me to continue. Must this go on forever?

REPLY

Why not ask for a consultation, since it is obvious you feel you are being overtreated.

A NEW WRINKLE

B. F. writes: Will spreading mayonnaise over the face and neck counteract wrinkles?

REPLY

No, and it won't take the wrinkles out of prunes, lettuce, or anything else in salads or sandwiches.

INADEQUATE SALT

A. B. writes: What are the symptoms of too little salt in the diet?

REPLY

TOMORROW: Reducing—a major project.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

An aircraft factory VIP, enlarging upon the virtue of initiative to the four o'clock shift, told of the day in World War II when General MacArthur summoned one of his Army engineers and asked, "How long will it take to throw a bridge across this stream?" "Three days," was the answer. "Okay," snapped MacArthur. "Have your draftsmen make blueprints immediately." Three days later the General asked if the bridge was under way. "It's finished," smiled the engineer. "You can send your troops across it this minute if you don't wait for those damn blueprints. They aren't started yet."

Every year Mr. and Mrs. Blevins had the pastor, his wife, and their son over for New Year's Day dinner. When their son was fifteen, he failed to appear with the pastor and his wife. "You must excuse our son Bill," explained the pastor to Mr. Blevins. "Now that he's grown up enough so we can stand him, he can't stand us!"

"Recession in Texas?" boomed an indignant San Antonian. "We don't have recessions in this state, son. Though I will admit that right now our boom is worse than it's been in ten years."

Almost $40 million in U.S. Savings Bonds are purchased automatically every week through the Payroll Savings Plan by America's wage earners.

This is not a recent development. Members of organized labor have supported the Savings Bond Program since it began 20 years ago. That's because so many of them have found the Payroll Savings Plan a painless way to achieve their dreams—a new home, a happier retirement, education for the youngsters and a better life for the whole family.

A workable plan for those "payday frustrations"

All you have to do to start on the plan is sign up once with your employer. He sets aside whatever amount you say, buys your Bonds and delivers them to you—automatically. The result is you save some money every payday before you get a chance to spend it. And soon you don't even miss the amount that's set aside for you.

Invest with absolutely no risk

You can't lose the money you invest in Series E Savings Bonds. The Government guarantees it to grow 33⅓% in 7¾ years. You can get your money with interest at any time. And if your Bonds are destroyed, you get new ones free.

Every Bond you buy is a step toward a secure personal future. What's more, every Bond is a share in a stronger America. Why not begin buying your shares today?

GEORGE MEANY,
President,

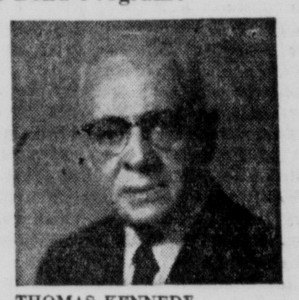
"In these critical times, the safest investment for any American, and especially American workers, is United States Savings Bonds. At the same time Bond purchases help keep America strong and free."

GEORGE E. LEIGHTY,
Chairman, Railway Labor Executives Association, says:
"The most efficient and best respected workers are those who have formed the habit of saving regularly. There is no better way to do this than by buying Savings Bonds on the Payroll Savings Plan."



THOMAS KENNEDY,

"Labor is glad to lend its support to the Savings Bond Program of the Treasury Department. This easy method of saving has made it possible for millions of wage earners to build up financial reserves."

Lakers Triumph, Go To NBA Finals; Warriors Beat Celtics

Los Angeles Tops Detroit Club, 123-117

West, Baylor Score 38 Each; Seven Are Banished On Fouls

DETROIT (UPI)—The Los Angeles Lakers blew a 24-point lead in the second half Tuesday night but rallied behind the one - two scoring punch of Jerry West and Elgin Baylor to nip the Detroit Pistons 123-117 and win the Western Division playoffs in the National Basketball Association.

The Lakers, who won the series 4-2, earned the right to meet the Eastern Division champion for the NBA title.

The Lakers had a comfortable 91-67 lead late in the third period when the Pistons suddenly came to life behind the shooting of Johnny Egan and Ray Scott. Scott, Egan and Bob Ferry led the Pistons within striking distance several times but each time the Lakers bounced back.

Baylor tied with West for scoring honors with 38 points. West's total included 20 free throws in the foul-ridden contest.

Four of the Lakers fouled out in the closing minutes of the contest and three Detroit starters also were waved to the bench.

A crowd of 6,347, the largest in Detroit's playoff history, watched as the Lakers took a 31-27 first-period lead, increased it to 64-45 at the halftime and then upped the margin to 24 points before the Pistons caught fire.

NFL To Open 98-Game Schedule On Sept. 16

Colts To Finish At Home For First Time In 10 Years

NEW YORK (AP)—A 14-week, 98-game program running from Sept. 16 to Dec. 16 was announced Tuesday by the National Football League and lists several departure from recent traditions.

The tradition shakeups involve the Cleveland Browns and New York Giants, perennial Eastern Conference title contenders, and the Baltimore Colts of the Western sector, who for the first time in 10 seasons will wind up the season at home.

The Browns and Giants will meet in an opening-day showdown at Cleveland Stadium, rather than on their usual mid-season date. Their traditional December meeting in New York's Yankee Stadium has been retained.

'Round Robin' Play

The season-curtain-raiser between Cleveland and Eastern Division champion New York also enabled the league to work in a "round robin" of sorts between the two and the Philadelphia Eagles during the first three weeks of the season.

The other schedule innovation permits the Colts, who always have closed on the West Coast, to finish before home crowds. It also sets their traditional meeting with Washington for Dec. 9 in Baltimore and gives them a final day clash with Minnesota.

The league-champion Green Bay Packers, who'll play three "home" games in Milwaukee, open defense of their Western Division crown against Minnesota. Listed on the schedule is a Nov. 11 battle at Philadelphia with the Eagles.

The Packers and Eagles met in Philadelphia for the 1960 title with the Eagles winning 17-13. The Packers, 37-0 victors over New York in the 1961 championship game, do not meet the Giants during the regular season.

Other Openers Set

Since returning to the NFL in 1953, the Colts have finished in Baltimore only in 1956.

That was due to a date conflict with the Naval Academy which required the Colts to reschedule a game at home with Washington after their return from the West Coast trip which normally would have concluded the season.

The Colts won only four and lost 14 games in the windup on the West Coast the past nine seasons.

The remainder of the Colts and Redskins' schedules:

Colts — Sept. 23, at Minnesota; 30, Detroit.

Oct. 7, San Francisco; 14, at Cleveland; 21, at Chicago; 28, Green Bay.

Nov. 4, at San Francisco; 11, at Los Angeles; 18, at Green Bay; 25, Chicago.

Dec. 2, at Detroit; 9, Washington; 16, Minnesota.

Redskins — Sept. 23, at Cleveland; 30, St. Louis.

Oct. 7, Los Angeles; 14, at St. Louis; 21, at Philadelphia; 28, at New York.

Nov. 4, Dallas; 11, Cleveland; 18, at Pittsburgh; 25, New York.

Dec. 2, Philadelphia; 9, at Baltimore; 16, Pittsburgh.

PBC Will Seek Perfect Season

Rec League Playoffs At Fort Hill Tonight

The Police Boys Club must clear one more hurdle to achieve a perfect record for the season and they hope to attain that goal tonight when they play Peskin's in the second game of their best-of-three final playoff series in the Men's Rec Basketball League tonight at 8 o'clock at Fort Hill High School.

If Peskin's wins the teams will clash in the "rubber" game of the series Thursday at Allegany High School.

Fort Hill Hi-Y Club and Wise Chips tangle in the second game of their best-of-three final series in the High School Rec League tonight at 7 p.m., at Fort Hill High School. Fort Hill won the opener on Monday by the score of 71-43 and a two-game sweep would conclude the series.

A victory for Wise Chips, however, would extend the series to the limit on Thursday at 7 p.m., at Campobello.

Player Likes Underdog Role For Masters

Champion Thinks He May Repeat

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Gary Player is in the kind of spot he likes for the 26th Masters Golf Tournament, beginning Thursday — he's tabbed as the champion who can't repeat.

"I must admit I am a bit surprised to see the experts counting me out so quickly," the little South African said Tuesday in his clipped British accent. "However, I cannot say I am not pleased.

"I play better when I am underrated. I get more determined. Also there is less pressure.

"Actually, I never have felt better in my life. I like the feel of the club in my hands. I am sharper than I was at this time a year ago. I'm quite confident of winning — regardless of what they say."

Player, the only foreigner ever to take this title, led through the first three rounds last year and then backed into the championship when Arnold Palmer took a double bogey 6 on the final hole.

Palmer, who missed by just a shot in 1961, won in 1958 and 1960 and lost out by two strokes in 1959, is the solid favorite for the newest 72-hole test over Augusta National's 6,850-yard, par 72 green monster.

Others ranked high in favoritism include Jack Nicklaus, the former National Amateur champion from Columbus, Ohio, who gives the ball a murderous wallop; Doug Sanders, the quick-swinging ace of the professional tour; comebacker Ben Hogan, a threat again at 49, and Bill Casper Jr., who owns the hottest putting blade on the premises.

Keyser High Routs Fort Ashby, 13-0

19 Passes Issued, 38 Players Used

Keyser High School's baseball team routed Fort Ashby High School's Eagles to the tune of 13-0 yesterday at Keyser as the Potomac Valley Conference season got under way for both teams.

The game was played in cold and windy weather and the pitchers experienced great difficulty in controlling the ball, issuing a total of 19 bases on balls. Fourteen of the passes were given up by Fort Ashby pitchers.

Coach Frederick "Tack" Clark, who began his 16th season as Keyser's baseball mentor, sent 23 players into action while 15 tossers were used by the visiting team.

Keyser garnered eight hits, four of which were shared by Forrest Cosner and Bill Thomas. One of Thomas' six hits was a triple

California Nine Rallies To Win, 3-1

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —California (Pa.) College scored three runs in the seventh inning in its season - opener Tuesday to post a 3-1 upset baseball victory over West Virginia.

Fisher Throws With No Pain

Fisher, who hasn't pitched an inning in competition this spring, had his shoulder examined in Baltimore on March 22 after complaining of severe pain while trying to pitch batting practice the day before. Rest and heat treatments were prescribed for the 10-game winner, who was being counted on as one of the Orioles' regular starters this season.

NEW SIZE DODGE DART!

NEW LOW PRICE
Dodge Dart 440 2-Door Hardtop

Some new automobiles are just too darn big to drive with any feeling of confidence. There's a couple of feet of useless overhang that doesn't seem to do anything except get in your way.

Then you try loading your family and your goods in a compact and you've got another kind of trouble. Too little room and not enough muscle in the engine department.

What's a man to do? Try out the new size Dodge Dart. It's a totally new kind of Dodge. An automobile without excess overhang and bulky nonsense. It's two feet bigger than America's smallest automobile . . . and two feet shorter than America's longest. Sized right in the middle of the big and little.

You get exceptional maneuverability, parkability without giving up interior room. You get handling that's astoundingly easy and firm. You get the most powerful standard six engine in the business. Or, a standard V8 that develops more horsepower and torque than anything near Dart's size or price. And that's just the half of it.

The body is rustproofed. The brakes adjust themselves. You go 32,000 miles between grease jobs. The Dart 440 has full carpeting, vinyl upholstery (in hardtop models), and a fold-down center armrest up front.

West, Baylor Score 38 Each; Seven Are Banished On Fouls

DETROIT (UPI)—The Los Angeles Lakers blew a 24-point lead in the second half Tuesday night but rallied behind the one - two scoring punch of Jerry West and Elgin Baylor to nip the Detroit Pistons 123-117 and win the Western Division playoffs in the National Basketball Association.

The Lakers, who won the series 4-2, earned the right to meet the Eastern Division champion for the NBA title.

The Lakers had a comfortable 91-67 lead late in the third period when the Pistons suddenly came to life behind the shooting of Johnny Egan and Ray Scott. Scott, Egan and Bob Ferry led the Pistons within striking distance several times but each time the Lakers bounced back.

Baylor tied with West for scoring honors with 38 points. West's total included 20 free throws in the foul-ridden contest.

Four of the Lakers fouled out in the closing minutes of the contest and three Detroit starters also were waved to the bench.

A crowd of 6,347, the largest in Detroit's playoff history, watched as the Lakers took a 31-27 first-period lead, increased it to 64-45 at the halftime and then upped the margin to 24 points before the Pistons caught fire.

NFL To Open 98-Game Schedule On Sept. 16

Colts To Finish At Home For First Time In 10 Years

NEW YORK (AP)—A 14-week, 98-game program running from Sept. 16 to Dec. 16 was announced Tuesday by the National Football League and lists several departure from recent traditions.

The tradition shakeups involve the Cleveland Browns and New York Giants, perennial Eastern Conference title contenders, and the Baltimore Colts of the Western sector, who for the first time in 10 seasons will wind up the season at home.

The Browns and Giants will meet in an opening-day showdown at Cleveland Stadium, rather than on their usual mid-season date. Their traditional December meeting in New York's Yankee Stadium has been retained.

'Round Robin' Play

The season-curtain-raiser between Cleveland and Eastern Division champion New York also enabled the league to work in a "round robin" of sorts between the two and the Philadelphia Eagles during the first three weeks of the season.

The other schedule innovation permits the Colts, who always have closed on the West Coast, to finish before home crowds. It also sets their traditional meeting with Washington for Dec. 9 in Baltimore and gives them a final day clash with Minnesota.

The league-champion Green Bay Packers, who'll play three "home" games in Milwaukee, open defense of their Western Division crown against Minnesota. Listed on the schedule is a Nov. 11 battle at Philadelphia with the Eagles.

The Packers and Eagles met in Philadelphia for the 1960 title with the Eagles winning 17-13. The Packers, 37-0 victors over New York in the 1961 championship game, do not meet the Giants during the regular season.

Other Openers Set

Since returning to the NFL in 1953, the Colts have finished in Baltimore only in 1956.

That was due to a date conflict with the Naval Academy which required the Colts to reschedule a game at home with Washington after their return from the West Coast trip which normally would have concluded the season.

The Colts won only four and lost 14 games in the windup on the West Coast the past nine seasons.

The remainder of the Colts and Redskins' schedules:

Colts — Sept. 23, at Minnesota; 30, Detroit.

Oct. 7, San Francisco; 14, at Cleveland; 21, at Chicago; 28, Green Bay.

Nov. 4, at San Francisco; 11, at Los Angeles; 18, at Green Bay; 25, Chicago.

Dec. 2, at Detroit; 9, Washington; 16, Minnesota.

Redskins — Sept. 23, at Cleveland; 30, St. Louis.

Oct. 7, Los Angeles; 14, at St. Louis; 21, at Philadelphia; 28, at New York.

Nov. 4, Dallas; 11, Cleveland; 18, at Pittsburgh; 25, New York.

Dec. 2, Philadelphia; 9, at Baltimore; 16, Pittsburgh.

PBC Will Seek Perfect Season

Rec League Playoffs At Fort Hill Tonight

The Police Boys Club must clear one more hurdle to achieve a perfect record for the season and they hope to attain that goal tonight when they play Peskin's in the second game of their best-of-three final playoff series in the Men's Rec Basketball League tonight at 8 o'clock at Fort Hill High School.

P.B.C. won the series opener Monday by the score of 67-57 and could wind it up with a 20-0 record by taking tonight's game.

If Peskin's wins the teams will clash in the "rubber" game of the series Thursday at Allegany High School.

Fort Hill Hi-Y Club and Wise Chips tangle in the second game of their best-of-three final series in the High School Rec League tonight at 7 p.m., at Fort Hill High School. Fort Hill won the opener on Monday by the score of 71-43 and a two-game sweep would conclude the series.

A victory for Wise Chips, however, would extend the series to the limit on Thursday at 7 p.m., at Campobello.

Player Likes Underdog Role For Masters

Champion Thinks He May Repeat

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Gary Player is in the kind of spot he likes for the 26th Masters Golf Tournament, beginning Thursday — he's tabbed as the champion who can't repeat.

"I must admit I am a bit surprised to see the experts counting me out so quickly," the little South African said Tuesday in his clipped British accent. "However, I cannot say I am not pleased.

"I play better when I am underrated. I get more determined. Also there is less pressure.

"Actually, I never have felt better in my life. I like the feel of the club in my hands. I am sharper than I was at this time a year ago. I'm quite confident of winning — regardless of what they say."

Player, the only foreigner ever to take this title, led through the first three rounds last year and then backed into the championship when Arnold Palmer took a double bogey 6 on the final hole.

Palmer, who missed by just a shot in 1961, won in 1958 and 1960 and lost out by two strokes in 1959, is the solid favorite for the newest 72-hole test over Augusta National's 6,850-yard, par 72 green monster.

Others ranked high in favoritism include Jack Nicklaus, the former National Amateur champion from Columbus, Ohio, who gives the ball a murderous wallop; Doug Sanders, the quick-swinging ace of the professional tour; comebacker Ben Hogan, a threat again at 49, and Bill Casper Jr., who owns the hottest putting blade on the premises.

Twins Blank Cincinnati, 5-0

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — Veteran Camilio Pascual and rookie Joe Bonikowski combined to shut out Cincinnati Tuesday, 5-0, on six hits as the Minnesota Twins chalked up their first blanking of the spring.

Moe Drabowsky went the distance for the Reds, granting only seven hits but one was a two-run homer by Don Mincher in the first inning.

Keyser High Routs Fort Ashby, 13-0

19 Passes Issued, 38 Players Used

Keyser High School's baseball team routed Fort Ashby High School's Eagles to the tune of 13-0 yesterday at Keyser as the Potomac Valley Conference season got under way for both teams.

The game was played in cold and windy weather and the pitchers experienced great difficulty in controlling the ball, issuing a total of 19 bases on balls. Fourteen of the passes were given up by Fort Ashby pitchers.

Coach Frederick "Tack" Clark, who began his 16th season as Keyser's baseball mentor, sent 23 players into action while 15 tossers were used by the visiting team.

Keyser garnered eight hits, four of which were shared by Forrest Cosner and Bill Thomas. One of Thomas' six hits was a triple.

Keyser plays at Romney High School Thursday.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —California (Pa.) College scored three runs in the seventh inning in its season - opener Tuesday to post a 3-1 upset baseball victory over West Virginia.

West Virginia had opened the scoring in the sixth when outfielder Bill Smith singled, stole second and scored on a single by first sacker Rod Thorn.

Fisher Throws With No Pain

MIAMI (UPI) — Right-hander Jack Fisher, who hadn't picked up a ball in 13 days, threw for half an hour on the sidelines Tuesday before the Baltimore Orioles' exhibition game against Washington and reported no pain in his ailing shoulder.

Fisher, who hasn't pitched an inning in competition this spring, had his shoulder examined in Baltimore on March 22 after complaining of severe pain while trying to pitch batting practice the day before. Rest and heat treatments were prescribed for the 10-game winner, who was being counted on as one of the Orioles' regular starters this season.

Dodge Dart 440 2-Door Hardtop

Some new automobiles are just too darn big to drive with any feeling of confidence. There's a couple of feet of useless overhang that doesn't seem to do anything except get in your way.

Then you try loading your family and your goods in a compact and you've got another kind of trouble. Too little room and not enough muscle in the engine department.

What's a man to do? Try out the new size Dodge Dart. It's a totally new kind of Dodge. An automobile without excess overhang and bulky nonsense. It's two feet bigger than America's smallest automobile . . . and two feet shorter than America's longest. Sized right in the middle of the big and little.

You get exceptional maneuverability, parkability without giving up interior room. You get handling that's astoundingly easy and firm. You get the most powerful standard six engine in the business. Or, a standard V8 that develops more horsepower and torque than anything near Dart's size or price. And that's just the half of it.

The body is rustproofed. The brakes adjust themselves. You go 32,000 miles between grease jobs. The Dart 440 has full carpeting, vinyl upholstery (in hardtop models), and a fold-down center armrest up front.

Yes sir, you're going to like what's happened to Dodge. Go see the new size Dodge Dart at your dependable Dodge Dealer.

Beall High School's Mountaineers are slated to launch this campaign today, meeting the Fort Ashby High School Eagles in a Potomac Valley Conference contest at Fort Ashby at 3:30 p. m.

Enordo "Moose" Arnone is at the Beall helm for the fourth straight season. Mountaineer teams have won 23, lost 16 and played one tie game since the reins were taken over by the former Beall High pitching ace who racked up 29 victories and suffered only one loss at the Frostburg school during the 1950, 1951 and 1952 seasons.

Paret Burial To Be Held In United States

Wife Refuses To Ship Body To Cuba

NEW YORK (UPI) — Boxer Benny (Kid) Paret, who lost his nine-day battle for life early Tuesday, will be buried in the United States, rather than in the Castro Cuba he opposed.

Those were the funeral plans desired by the young, pregnant widow of the 24-year-old Cuban fighter who breathed his last at 1:55 a.m. EST Tuesday without ever regaining consciousness. Paret had been in a coma since he was knocked out by Emile Griffith in their world welterweight championship bout at Madison Square Garden, March 24.

Mrs. Maxima Crespo of Cuba, Paret's mother, wanted her son buried in the land that gave him birth, according to the fighter's manager, Manuel Alfaro.

Can Visit Grave

"But Mrs. Paret wants her husband buried in Miami, where she can visit his grave," said Alfrao.

An attendant at Roosevelt Hospital, where Paret died, reported that Mrs. Paret and Mrs. Crespo had an emotional, tear-stained argument shortly after Paret's death. He said Mrs. Paret insisted she would not allow her husband to be buried in Cuba because "my husband worked in the underground. I don't want his body used for propaganda."

The attendant said Mrs. Crespo told her daughter-in-law that Castro had planned to give the boxer a huge state funeral in the event he died and his body was brought to Havana for burial.

The attendant said Mrs. Paret said, "His body will never go back to Cuba as long as Cuba is ruled by that man."

Mrs. Paret Prevails

That Mrs. Paret had prevailed was indicated by a spokesman for the funeral home where Paret's body was brought Tuesday night.

"Our instructions are to ship his body to Miami on Friday," said the spokesman. "We assume that burial will be in Miami."

Paret, the only world champion in boxing history to die as a result of injuries suffered in a bout, died "without saying a word," according to manager Alfaro, who was alone at the fighter's bedside when the end came.

In the match at the Republican Club ,the Legion won by 12 points, 68-56, as Bernard Smith and Bob Hess each scored 21 for the winners. Vic Phillips had 16 tallies fo rthe GOP shufflers.

Won $30 Million

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jockey Eddie Arcaro, the greatest money rider of them all whose mounts won a million dollars in purses for each of his 30 years in the saddle, Tuesday announced his retirement.

Rode 4,779 Winners

All told Arcaro rode in 24,092 races. He whipped home 4,779 winners with 3,807 seconds and 3,302 thirds. His mounts won $30,039,543 in purses, the greatest amount accounted for by any jockey in history.

Johnny Longden and Sir Gordon Richards of England have ridden more winners than Aracro but "money riding" was what made Arcaro famous — and rich.

"A jockey usually earns about 10 per cent of what he wins," Arcaro would say when questioned of a jockey's earnings. By that yardstick Arcaro grossed $3 million in 30 years and he always has admitted "I owe a lot to racing."

Never Top Jockey

Never throughout his career was the talented Arcaro — who worked hard to develop his talents—ever the country's leading jockey in numbers of winners. Usually he did not ride often enough to be in contention.

But in six different years Arcaro led in "money won." He was the champion in that category for the first time as far back as 1940 when $343,661 was enough to take the crown.

Circleville's Indians Whip Mathias, 5-2

Makowski Suffers Initial Defeat

The Circleville High Indians tallied three times in the first inning, then hung on to defeat Mathias High's defending champions in their Potomac Valley Conference opener yesterday at Circleville. The score was 5-2.

The Indians hopped on Al Makowski, Mathias' top winner last year (5-0) and handed the right-hander his first setback as Carroll Warner held the Eagles to four hits and whiffed 10.

Warner opened the winning rally in the first frame with one out as he singled and took second on a walk to Orville Harper. Larry Kisamore's long drive to left field was misjudged for a three-base error as Warner and Harper scored, then Kisamore tallied on Larry Hedrick's one-base blow.

Mathias came back with a pair of runs in the third when Ron Whetzel singled with one out, Richard Delawder was hit by a pitched ball and both came romping home on Eddie Mongold's two-run single. But Warner closed the door on the PVC title-holders the rest of the way as he doled out only four singles while walking five.

Delawder obtained two of Mathias' four bingles but Circleville's hitting was divided among five different players.

Makowski walked four and fanned eight as he permitted only five singles in a losing cause. The lineups:

15th Game Of Series

Today's game is the fifteenth of the series between the schools and the Buckeye State teams hold an 8-5 edge in victories in addition to the tie game.

This game will be Potomac's home opener, the Catamounts having split a doubleheader with Montgomery Junior College last week at Takoma Park, Md. The Catamounts also will play at home Friday, meeting the Salem (W.Va.) College Tigers.

Beall At Fort Ashby

Beall High School's Mountaineers are slated to launch this campaign today, meeting the Fort Ashby High School Eagles in a Potomac Valley Conference contest at Fort Ashby at 3:30 p. m.

Enordo "Moose" Arnone is at the Beall helm for the fourth straight season. Mountaineer teams have won 23, lost 16 and played one tie game since the reins were taken over by the former Beall High pitching ace who racked up 29 victories and suffered only one loss at the Frostburg school during the 1950, 1951 and 1952 seasons.

Coach Arnone has five pitchers available for duty. They are Jim and Bill Diehl, Francis Allen, Ronnie Werner, Don Richards and Dave Broadwater. Rance Ritchie will do the receiving. Beall's infield is composed of John Chaney, first base; Jim Wilson, second base; Allan Eisel, shortstop. and Jerry Cole or Tom Wilson, third base. Outfielders are Wayne Harper, left, Charles Gray, center, and Bob Ashby or Milburn Ziler, right.

The Mountaineers won ten, lost one and played one tie game last season. Beall opens at home April 11 with Fort Ashby and plays its first game of the season in the County League with Mt. Savage at Frostburg, Thursday, April 19.

Paret Burial To Be Held In United States

Wife Refuses To Ship Body To Cuba

NEW YORK (UPI) — Boxer Benny (Kid) Paret, who lost his nine-day battle for life early Tuesday, will be buried in the United States, rather than in the Castro Cuba he opposed.

Those were the funeral plans desired by the young, pregnant widow of the 24-year-old Cuban fighter who breathed his last at 1:55 a.m. EST Tuesday without ever regaining consciousness. Paret had been in a coma since he was knocked out by Emile Griffith in their world welterweight championship bout at Madison Square Garden, March 24.

Mrs. Maxima Crespo of Cuba, Paret's mother, wanted her son buried in the land that gave him birth, according to the fighter's manager, Manuel Alfaro.

Can Visit Grave

"But Mrs. Paret wants her husband buried in Miami, where she can visit his grave," said Alfrao.

An attendant at Roosevelt Hospital, where Paret died, reported that Mrs. Paret and Mrs. Crespo had an emotional, tear-stained argument shortly after Paret's death. He said Mrs. Paret insisted she would not allow her husband to be buried in Cuba because "my husband worked in the underground. I don't want his body used for propaganda."

The attendant said Mrs. Crespo told her daughter-in-law that Castro had planned to give the boxer a huge state funeral in the event he died and his body was brought to Havana for burial.

The attendant said Mrs. Paret said, "His body will never go back to Cuba as long as Cuba is ruled by that man."

Mrs. Paret Prevails

That Mrs. Paret had prevailed was indicated by a spokesman for the funeral home where Paret's body was brought Tuesday night.

"Our instructions are to ship his body to Miami on Friday," said the spokesman. "We assume that burial will be in Miami."

Paret, the only world champion in boxing history to die as a result of injuries suffered in a bout, died "without saying a word," according to manager Alfaro, who was alone at the fighter's bedside when the end came.

"Death was caused by complications of brain injuries sustained as a result of the boxing bout,"

Won $30 Million

EDDIE ARCARO

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jockey Eddie Arcaro, the greatest money rider of them all whose mounts won a million dollars in purses for each of his 30 years in the saddle, Tuesday announced his retirement.

Rode 4,779 Winners

All told Arcaro rode in 24,092 races. He whipped home 4,779 winners with 3,807 seconds and 3,302 thirds. His mounts won $30,039,543 in purses, the greatest amount accounted for by any jockey in history.

Johnny Longden and Sir Gordon Richards of England have ridden more winners than Aracro but "money riding" was what made Arcaro famous — and rich.

"A jockey usually earns about 10 per cent of what he wins," Arcaro would say when questioned of a jockey's earnings. By that yardstick Arcaro grossed $3 million in 30 years and he always has admitted "I owe a lot to racing."

Never Top Jockey

Never throughout his career was the talented Arcaro — who worked hard to develop his talents—ever the country's leading jockey in numbers of winners. Usually he did not ride often enough to be in contention.

But in six different years Arcaro led in "money won." He was the champion in that category for the first time as far back as 1940 when $343,661 was enough to take the crown.

In stakes races Arcaro was without peer although Willie Shoemaker, Bill Hartack and Manny Ycaza have been pressing him in recent years.

Makowski Suffers Initial Defeat

The Circleville High Indians tallied three times in the first inning, then hung on to defeat Mathias High's defending champions in their Potomac Valley Conference opener yesterday at Circleville. The score was 5-2.

The Indians hopped on Al Makowski, Mathias' top winner last year (5-0) and handed the right-hander his first setback as Carroll Warner held the Eagles to four hits and whiffed 10.

Warner opened the winning rally in the first frame with one out as he singled and took second on a walk to Orville Harper. Larry Kisamore's long drive to left field was misjudged for a three-base error as Warner and Harper scored, then Kisamore tallied on Larry Hedrick's one-base blow.

Mathias came back with a pair of runs in the third when Ron Whetzel singled with one out, Richard Delawder was hit by a pitched ball and both came romping home on Eddie Mongold's two-run single. But Warner closed the door on the PVC title-holders the rest of the way as he doled out only four singles while walking five.

Delawder obtained two of Mathias' four bingles but Circleville's hitting was divided among five different players.

Makowski walked four and fanned eight as he permitted only five singles in a losing cause. The lineups:

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — Bill White scored from second base on Julio Gotay's infield hit as the St. Louis Cardinals, rallying for four runs in the ninth inning, handed the Detroit Tigers their sixth straight defeat Tuesday 7-6.

After the Tigers had gone ahead with three runs off Lindy McDaniel in their ninth, the Redbirds scored twice off Terry Fox on singles by Carl Warwick, Doug Clemens, Ken Boyer and pinch-hitter White.

A walk to Gene Oliver then filled the bases with two out. Gotay grounded slowly far to second baseman Jake Wood's left. When the St. Louis shortstop beat the throw to first, Boyer scored the tying run and White raced in with the winning marker.

Wave Of Heavy Selling Batters Stock Market

IBM, which has been the darling of Wall Street for a long time, was down 18½ points at worst, sinking to a low of 507—exactly 100 points below the peak reached in 1961—before it recovered to take a net loss of 13 at 512½.

The Dow Jones industrial average fell 4.82 to 700.60—bringing it once more to the general level which has provided support previously this year.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped 1.60 to 255.30 with industrials down 3.00, rails down .90 to a new low for the year and utilities down .30. It was the sharpest decline since Feb. 21 when the average lost 1.80.

An estimated $2.4 billion was clipped from the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, based on the fall in the AP average.

Volume rose to 3.35 million shares from 2.79 million Monday and was the largest since March 21 when 3.36 million shares were traded.

Of the 1,299 issues in Tuesday's session, 816 declined and 258 advanced. New highs for the year totaled 30 and new lows 138.

Ten of the 15 most active stocks declined, three advanced and two were unchanged.

Prices were generally lower on the American Stock Exchange.

Wave Of Heavy Selling Batters Stock Market

IBM, which has been the darling of Wall Street for a long time, was down 18½ points at worst, sinking to a low of 507—exactly 100 points below the peak reached in 1961—before it recovered to take a net loss of 13 at 512½.

The Dow Jones industrial average fell 4.82 to 700.60—bringing it once more to the general level which has provided support previously this year.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped 1.60 to 255.30 with industrials down 3.00, rails down .90 to a new low for the year and utilities down .30. It was the sharpest decline since Feb. 21 when the average lost 1.80.

An estimated $2.4 billion was clipped from the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, based on the fall in the AP average.

Volume rose to 3.35 million shares from 2.79 million Monday and was the largest since March 21 when 3.36 million shares were traded.

Of the 1,299 issues in Tuesday's session, 816 declined and 258 advanced. New highs for the year totaled 30 and new lows 138.

Ten of the 15 most active stocks declined, three advanced and two were unchanged.

Prices were generally lower on the American Stock Exchange.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our thanks to our good neighbors, friends and relatives for their kindness to us during the illness and following the death of our beloved husband and brother Charles E. Miller. The cards, the lovely flowers, uses of cars and the services of the pallbearers were greatly appreciated. We wish to thank the organist, the minister Rev. Sumner D. Sawyers who conducted the funeral service and the Boal Funeral Home.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR ALLEGANY COUNTY, MARYLAND

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this proceeding is to obtain a decree of adoption.

The Petition states that a certain child born of the marriage of James Robert Cartwright and Johanna Claudette Cartwright, namely Edward Charles Cartwright, born November 5, 1954, is the object of a certain Petition for Adoption, which has been filed in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland; that the mother of said child, Johanna Claudette Cartwright, has consented to the adoption of said child by your Petitioners, and that the father of said child, James Robert Cartwright, whose address is unknown has not consented to the adoption of said child, but is believed to be in Georgetown, Delaware; that your Petitioners have been providing care and maintenance for said child, while the father of said child has not contributed to his support for many years nor shown any interest in said child. Your Petitioners state that it would be for the best interest of said child that he be adopted by them and that his name might be changed to Edward Charles Dyer.

IT IS THEREUPON, this 19th day of March, 1962, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, ORDERED that the Petitioners by causing a copy of this Order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County, Maryland, once in each of four successive weeks before the 20th day of April, 1962, giving notice of the object and substance of this proceeding to James Robert Cartwright as provided by law in the case of non-residents warning him to be and appear in person or by solicitor in this Court on or before the 21st day of May, 1962, to show cause, if any he may have, why a Decree should not be passed as prayed.

Patricia Ann Bittner, R.F.D. #5, Potomac Park, Cumberland, Maryland vs. Dallas Glenn Bittner, Address: Unknown. No. 26562 Equity In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII from the Respondent and the custody of the minor children of the Parties.

The Bill of Complaint states the Parties were married on November 18, 1956, by a duly ordained minister of the Gospel in Baltimore County, Maryland; that five children were born of said marriage, Debra Ann Bittner, Dallas Glenn Bittner, Jr., Michele Lea Bittner, Cheryl Ann Bittner, and Kevin McClenning Bittner, who are in the custody of the Complainant; that even though the conduct of the Complainant was that of a kind, affectionate, and chaste spouse, yet the said Respondent treated the Complainant with great cruelty and finally deserted and abandoned your Complainant and that on or about the 30th day of March, 1960, and that said desertion and abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for more than eighteen months prior to the filing of the Bill of Complaint; that it is deliberate and final; that both the parties are adults; that the Complainant has been a resident of Allegany County, Maryland, for more than one year next immediately preceding the filing of the Bill of Complaint; and that the Respondent is a non-resident of Maryland and is a resident of the State of Arizona, the precise address being unknown.

It is, thereupon, this 19th day of March, 1962, ORDERED that the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, sitting in Equity, that the Complainant, by causing a copy of this Order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County, Maryland, once in each of four successive weeks before the 20th day of April, 1962, giving notice to the said absent Respondent of the object and sustance of the Bill of Complaint, warning him to appear in Court, in person or by Solicitor, on or before the 21st day of May, 1962, to show cause, if any he have, why a Decree ought not to be passed herein as prayed.

County Budget Up $307,811 As Rate Drops

Other Income Aids Commissioners

Allegany County's Board of Commissioners had the pleasant task yesterday of being able to lower the county's real estate and personal property tax rate 25 cents on each $100 of assessable property while still approving a budget calling for a $307,811.05 boost in expenditures to a new high of 5,961,952.83.

In arriving at the nearly $6,000,000 budget for the fiscal year starting July 1, the county commissioners approved increases in 41 items in the budget, dropped the totals for 25 others, left 14 unchanged and added six new accounts. Two others which were in the 1961-62 budget were eliminated.

Lowest Since 1954

The $1.85 rate approved yesterday is the lowest the county has had since 1954. It marked the third successive year that the county commissioners had lowered the tax rate. Yet the average rate for the four budgets approved by the current county commissioners is $2.0925, compared with $2.05 that was approved for each of the four previous years.

A number of factors enabled the county commissioners to lower the tax rate while approving an overall increase of $307,811.05 in expenditures. Two big boosts are the $286,600 the county anticipates from the new state cigarette tax which became effective last summer and a $231,781.35 increase in the county's surplus. A year ago the estimated unexpended balance from the previous levy was $615,074.58 and yesterday it was a whopping $846,855.93.

Other revenue increases in the estimates for the 1962-63 fiscal year include a $20,000 boost to $225,000 from state income tax, $66,889 increase to $136,889 anticipated federal aid for highways, a $4,000 increase to $65,000 from the state tax on distilled spirits and $9,500 from state judicial funds.

Six Decreased

The county levy list approved yesterday divided the county's operations into 21 basic groupings. Of them, 14 were increase, six decreased and only one remained the same. Unchanged was the $7,000 law budget, including a $5,790 salary and $1,210 expenses for the county attorney.

Sanitation and waste removal was down $17,550, from $39,150 to $21,600; conservation of health was down $972 from $104,188 to $103,216; miscellaneous was down $21,757.17 from $376,867.46 to $355,110.29; debt service was lowered $38,522.82, from $769,282.57 to $730,759.75; buildings down $27,299.33 to $67,447.37, and highways, down $40,797 to $666,960.96.

The budgets increased for 1962-63 included legislative and executive, up $5,709 to $33,659; judicial, up $13,042.66 to $139,268.06; elections, up $880 to $40,417; finance, up $58,637.22 to $215,405.22; planning and zoning, up $5,300 to $30,300; public safety, up $17,192.75 to $54,766.15; sheriff, up $350 to $6,150; other protection, up $771.80 to $25,971.80; hospitals, up $23,476.64 to $352,583.54; public welfare, up $18,784.24; corrections, up $780 to $52,117.25; schools, up $267,511 to $2,455,195; recreation, (county library), up $9,990 to $49,990; public service, up $32,285 to $69,974.

Six New Items

Among the six new items in the 1962-63 budget is $21,010 for the liquor control board. For years no budget for this board has been included in the levy on the grounds that the board was self-sustaining from liquor license revenue and consequently took no direct tax revenue. Last year the budget listed only $35,000 income from liquor licenses. In the new

Race Committee Gets Early Start

Special Tax Rates Stay Unchanged

Range From 8 Cents To 30 Cents Per $100

All four special taxing areas in Allegany County will pay the same tax rates again this year that they paid in 1961 as a result of yesterday's action by the Board of County Commissioners.

A 10-cent rate on each $100 of assessment again will prevail in the area served by the LaVale Sanitary Commission. The commission determined that it would need at least $13,000 by taxation for the payment of principal of all serial bonds maturing in the year. The commission's resolution pointed out that the assessed value of property within the LaVale Sanitary District is $13,489,610.

The Mt. Savage special taxing area again will be required to pay a rate of 12 cents on each $100 of assessable property. The Citizens Committee of the area has determined that it will be necessary to raise at least $1,440 by taxation during the ensuing year for street lights. The assessed value of property in this Mt. Savage area is $1,200,000.

Potomac Park Addition again will need a tax rate of eight cents per $100 to raise the necessary $947.51 by taxation for street lights and fire protection. The assessed value of property within the Potomac Park Addition is $1,184,385.

The largest rate again will be charged for the supplemental levy for the Cresaptown Civic Improvement Association. It will again be 30 cents on each $100. The returns from this levy will be applied to the bond issue floated in 1949 for water maintenance in the area but the amount needed for this purpose was not cited in the association's letter to the county commissioners.

75% Of County School Buses Defect-Free

Seventy-five per cent of the Allegany County public school buses were found to be defect-free in a three-day inspection last month, according to J. Hubert Radcliffe, supervisor of transportation, who said the general condition of all buses was good.

He pointed out that the remaining buses had various defects such as long or loose exhaust pipes, bad tail lights, warning lights, dirty motor, bad window glass or floor covering, loose seats, defective exterior mirror, carburetor adjustment or fan belt.

There were only four buses having defective drag links, and only one bus with a bad king-pin and tie rod, which is considered very good after a winter of use when the front ends of buses are subject to heavy wear, he said.

Mr. Radcliffe said the condition of the buses speaks well for the cooperation of bus contractors, because buses are inspected daily by contractors or drivers and faults are corrected as discovered.

Among those taking part in the inspection were Morris W. Rannels, state supervisor of transportation, and Robert Paugh, inspector for the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Mr. Radcliffe said the defects found during the inspection are to be remedied within 10 days. A pre-school inspection was held last August and the regular inspection in November and last month.

ABL Gets $1,092,435 Contract

Will Continue Polaris Work

A $1,092,435 contract for plant equipment to be used in connection with the Polaris propellant development program at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory was announced yesterday.

The contract is being awarded by the Navy Special Projects Office to Hercules Powder Company, Wilmington, Del.

Dr. Cameron Is Praised For Cancer Project

A report on a project now under way in Washington County for studying the geographic distribution of cancer as related to evironment factors is contained in an article in a March issue of Science News Letter.

Dr. Ross Cameron, deputy state health officer and county health officer for Washington County, is praised by Pope A. Lawrence and Dr. William Y. Chen, working under the National Cancer Institute, for his work in starting the Environment Cancer Field Research Project in Hagerstown. Dr. Cameron also is acting deputy state health officer for Allegany County.

Geologists, chemists, physicists and soil scientists are pooling their talents with medical men to find out whether a disproportionate number of cancer fatalities in certain parts of the county is influenced by the radioactivity in the rock or soil, according to the article.

Based on Dr. Cameron's study of cancer death records that go as far back as 1898, a unique field research laboratory has been staffed and equipped by the National Cancer Institute, in Hagerstown.

Opinions Asked On Garbage

Readers, he said, should send cards to the Mayor and Council stating whether they are for or against daytime garbage collections.

The day collections began on a 30-day trial basis on April 16, the mayor said, and the city must make a decision on the proposal soon.

He said city officials want to have the advantage of the thinking of most residents of the city.

Expressions of opinion on the proposal were running about 50-50 yesterday.

Nuclear Power Station Nears Completion

Saxton, Pa., Plant To Operate Soon

An experimental plant which may help find cheaper ways of producing electric power by nuclear means is expected to begin operation in about two weeks in Bedford County, Pa.

The station has been under construction for two years at Pennsylvania Electric Company's steam power station. Its atomic furnace has been tied in with the generators at the existing plant. Both companies are subsidiaries of General Public Utilities.

The reactor and the fuels it will use for the next five years have cost $6,250,000. In addition, $2,270,000 has been spent for the site, supervision and engineering, maintenance, and training of the 21 employes who will operate SNEC.

How soon the plant "goes critical" depends on now rapidly the atomic furnace goes into operation after the nuclear fuel is received this week.

In the next five years, SNEC will test nuclear and heat transfer characteristics under normal operating conditions of an electric power station.

Also to be investigated are:

SNEC got its first fuel in December — a 524-pound shipment containing the first two fuel assembly units—and stored it in the reactor to await other shipments. Shipments are limited in size to prevent assembling a critical mass at one place.

194 Voters Placed On City Books

The net increase for March was 178, since 16 voters who died or moved out of the city were stricken from the books.

The registration books on Monday included the names of 4,928 white males, 4,337 white females, 91 colored males and 71 colored females for the total of 9,427.

City residents may get their names on the voting rolls at the registration office in the basement of City Hall until 5 p. m. on May 15.

At that time books will be closed for the June 5 city primary and the June 15 general municipal election.

County Budget Up $307,811 As Rate Drops

Other Income Aids Commissioners

Allegany County's Board of Commissioners had the pleasant task yesterday of being able to lower the county's real estate and personal property tax rate 25 cents on each $100 of assessable property while still approving a budget calling for a $307,811.05 boost in expenditures to a new high of 5,961,952.83.

In arriving at the nearly $6,000,000 budget for the fiscal year starting July 1, the county commissioners approved increases in 41 items in the budget, dropped the totals for 25 others, left 14 unchanged and added six new accounts. Two others which were in the 1961-62 budget were eliminated.

Lowest Since 1954

The $1.85 rate approved yesterday is the lowest the county has had since 1954. It marked the third successive year that the county commissioners had lowered the tax rate. Yet the average rate for the four budgets approved by the current county commissioners is $2.0925, compared with $2.05 that was approved for each of the four previous years.

A number of factors enabled the county commissioners to lower the tax rate while approving an overall increase of $307,811.05 in expenditures. Two big boosts are the $286,600 the county anticipates from the new state cigarette tax which became effective last summer and a $231,781.35 increase in the county's surplus. A year ago the estimated unexpended balance from the previous levy was $615,074.58 and yesterday it was a whopping $846,855.93.

Other revenue increases in the estimates for the 1962-63 fiscal year include a $20,000 boost to $225,000 from state income tax, $66,889 increase to $136,889 anticipated federal aid for highways, a $4,000 increase to $65,000 from the state tax on distilled spirits and $9,500 from state judicial funds.

Six Decreased

The county levy list approved yesterday divided the county's operations into 21 basic groupings. Of them, 14 were increase, six decreased and only one remained the same. Unchanged was the $7,000 law budget, including a $5,790 salary and $1,210 expenses for the county attorney.

Sanitation and waste removal was down $17,550, from $39,150 to $21,600; conservation of health was down $972 from $104,188 to $103,216; miscellaneous was down $21,757.17 from $376,867.46 to $355,110.29; debt service was lowered $38,522.82, from $769,282.57 to $730,759.75; buildings down $27,299.33 to $67,447.37, and highways, down $40,797 to $666,960.96.

The budgets increased for 1962-63 included legislative and executive, up $5,709 to $33,659; judicial, up $13,042.66 to $139,268.06; elections, up $880 to $40,417; finance, up $58,637.22 to $215,405.22; planning and zoning, up $5,300 to $30,300; public safety, up $17,192.75 to $54,766.15; sheriff, up $350 to $6,150; other protection, up $771.80 to $25,971.80; hospitals, up $23,476.64 to $352,583.54; public welfare, up $18,784.24; corrections, up $780 to $52,117.25; schools, up $267,511 to $2,455,195; recreation, (county library), up $9,990 to $49,990; public service, up $32,285 to $69,974.

Six New Items

Among the six new items in the 1962-63 budget is $21,010 for the liquor control board. For years no budget for this board has been included in the levy on the grounds that the board was self-sustaining from liquor license revenue and consequently took no direct tax revenue. Last year the budget listed only $35,000 income from liquor licenses. In the new

Race Committee Gets Early Start

Special Tax Rates Stay Unchanged

Range From 8 Cents To 30 Cents Per $100

All four special taxing areas in Allegany County will pay the same tax rates again this year that they paid in 1961 as a result of yesterday's action by the Board of County Commissioners.

A 10-cent rate on each $100 of assessment again will prevail in the area served by the LaVale Sanitary Commission. The commission determined that it would need at least $13,000 by taxation for the payment of principal of all serial bonds maturing in the year. The commission's resolution pointed out that the assessed value of property within the LaVale Sanitary District is $13,489,610.

The Mt. Savage special taxing area again will be required to pay a rate of 12 cents on each $100 of assessable property. The Citizens Committee of the area has determined that it will be necessary to raise at least $1,440 by taxation during the ensuing year for street lights. The assessed value of property in this Mt. Savage area is $1,200,000.

Potomac Park Addition again will need a tax rate of eight cents per $100 to raise the necessary $947.51 by taxation for street lights and fire protection. The assessed value of property within the Potomac Park Addition is $1,184,385.

The largest rate again will be charged for the supplemental levy for the Cresaptown Civic Improvement Association. It will again be 30 cents on each $100. The returns from this levy will be applied to the bond issue floated in 1949 for water maintenance in the area but the amount needed for this purpose was not cited in the association's letter to the county commissioners.

75% Of County School Buses Defect-Free

Seventy-five per cent of the Allegany County public school buses were found to be defect-free in a three-day inspection last month, according to J. Hubert Radcliffe, supervisor of transportation, who said the general condition of all buses was good.

He pointed out that the remaining buses had various defects such as long or loose exhaust pipes, bad tail lights, warning lights, dirty motor, bad window glass or floor covering, loose seats, defective exterior mirror, carburetor adjustment or fan belt.

In most cases, he added, not more than one bus had the same defect mentioned above.

There were only four buses having defective drag links, and only one bus with a bad king-pin and tie rod, which is considered very good after a winter of use when the front ends of buses are subject to heavy wear, he said.

Mr. Radcliffe said the condition of the buses speaks well for the cooperation of bus contractors, because buses are inspected daily by contractors or drivers and faults are corrected as discovered.

Among those taking part in the inspection were Morris W. Rannels, state supervisor of transportation, and Robert Paugh, inspector for the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Mr. Radcliffe said the defects found during the inspection are to be remedied within 10 days. A pre-school inspection was held last August and the regular inspection in November and last month.

ABL Gets $1,092,435 Contract

Will Continue Polaris Work

A $1,092,435 contract for plant equipment to be used in connection with the Polaris propellant development program at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory was announced yesterday.

The contract is being awarded by the Navy Special Projects Office to Hercules Powder Company, Wilmington, Del.

Dr. Cameron Is Praised For Cancer Project

A report on a project now under way in Washington County for studying the geographic distribution of cancer as related to evironment factors is contained in an article in a March issue of Science News Letter.

Dr. Ross Cameron, deputy state health officer and county health officer for Washington County, is praised by Pope A. Lawrence and Dr. William Y. Chen, working under the National Cancer Institute, for his work in starting the Environment Cancer Field Research Project in Hagerstown. Dr. Cameron also is acting deputy state health officer for Allegany County.

Geologists, chemists, physicists and soil scientists are pooling their talents with medical men to find out whether a disproportionate number of cancer fatalities in certain parts of the county is influenced by the radioactivity in the rock or soil, according to the article.

Based on Dr. Cameron's study of cancer death records that go as far back as 1898, a unique field research laboratory has been staffed and equipped by the National Cancer Institute, in Hagerstown.

Opinions Asked On Garbage

Readers, he said, should send cards to the Mayor and Council stating whether they are for or against daytime garbage collections.

The day collections began on a 30-day trial basis on April 16, the mayor said, and the city must make a decision on the proposal soon.

He said city officials want to have the advantage of the thinking of most residents of the city.

Expressions of opinion on the proposal were running about 50-50 yesterday.

Nuclear Power Station Nears Completion

Saxton, Pa., Plant To Operate Soon

An experimental plant which may help find cheaper ways of producing electric power by nuclear means is expected to begin operation in about two weeks in Bedford County, Pa.

The station has been under construction for two years at Pennsylvania Electric Company's steam power station. Its atomic furnace has been tied in with the generators at the existing plant. Both companies are subsidiaries of General Public Utilities.

The reactor and the fuels it will use for the next five years have cost $6,250,000. In addition, $2,270,000 has been spent for the site, supervision and engineering, maintenance, and training of the 21 employes who will operate SNEC.

How soon the plant "goes critical" depends on how rapidly the atomic furnace goes into operation after the nuclear fuel is received this week.

In the next five years, SNEC will test nuclear and heat transfer characteristics under normal operating conditions of an electric power station.

Also to be investigated are:

—Value of boric acid in the coolant as a means of controlling the reactor.

—New types of fuel elements, control rods and reactor vessels.

—How to achieve higher heat output.

SNEC got its first fuel in December — a 524-pound shipment containing the first two fuel assembly units—and stored it in the reactor to await other shipments. Shipments are limited in size to prevent assembling a critical mass at one place.

Opinions Asked On Garbage

Readers, he said, should send cards to the Mayor and Council stating whether they are for or against daytime garbage collections.

The day collections began on a 30-day trial basis on April 16, the mayor said, and the city must make a decision on the proposal soon.

He said city officials want to have the advantage of the thinking of most residents of the city.

Expressions of opinion on the proposal were running about 50-50 yesterday.

194 Voters Placed On City Books

Registration rolls of the City of Cumberland rose to 9,427 during March as 194 new voters signed up at City Hall.

The 194 registrants marked the high point of voter registration since the 1958 city elections.

The net increase for March was 178, since 16 voters who died or moved out of the city were stricken from the books.

The registration books on Monday included the names of 4,928 white males, 4,337 white females, 91 colored males and 71 colored females for the total of 9,427.

Wallace G. Ullery, city clerk, and Mrs. Janet E. Trost, registration clerk, answered hundreds of telephone queries from citizens who called to check on their voting status and voting place.

City residents may get their names on the voting rolls at the registration office in the basement of City Hall until 5 p. m. on May 15.

At that time books will be closed for the June 5 city primary and the June 15 general municipal election.
